

SFU'S WOMEN'S HEALTH RESEARCH SYMPOSIUM

Examining Diversity Across Disciplines, Decades, And Distances
(SFU's Health Research Day 2017)

Join us for insightful panel discussions with distinguished speakers from across SFU's eight faculties to discuss intersections between technological, scientific, social, and legal solutions to improve women's health.

Wednesday October 25, 2017

| 8:00am - 1:30pm |

Fraser-Thompson Room,
Diamond Alumni Centre,
Burnaby

The symposium is open to all researchers, trainees, students, staff and other individuals interested in women's health research.

There will be a networking lunch and trainee poster session following the Symposium

TRAINEE BREAKFAST

The symposium will begin with a Trainee Breakfast open to all SFU graduate students and post-doctoral fellows.

Charting a Course for Successful Research Career

+ Q&A Session with
Dr. Joy Johnson.

| 7:15am - 8:00am |

Keynote presentation

Dr. Joy Johnson

Vice President of Research
at SFU and former Scientific
Director of the CIHR
Institute of Gender and Health

PANEL PRESENTATIONS

Panel 1: Mapping the future for women's health research: Equity, Diversity, and Success

Panel 2: Harnessing New Science & Technology for women's health

Panel 3: Supportive environments, policies, and laws for women's health

RSVP by October 18, at <https://goo.gl/PHpyig>

For further information, please contact: Ama Kyeremeh, symposium coordinator at, akyereme@sfu.ca