Guest Speaker: Dean Carol Stephenson

The University of Western Ontario's Richard Ivey School of Business

“Rebuilding Trust: The Integral Role of Leadership in Fostering Values, Honesty and Vision”

Carol Stephenson, a widely respected CEO in the Canadian telecom industry, is the new Dean of the Richard Ivey School of Business at The University of Western Ontario. She brings more than 30 years of progressive experience in marketing, operations, strategic planning, technology development and financial management to Canada's premier business school. The recipient of a number of prestigious awards for her achievements, she serves on the boards of directors for several top Canadian companies and on several important government committees.

Ms. Stephenson began her career at Bell Canada in 1973, advancing through a series of management positions to join the executive ranks in 1988. From 1995 to 1998, as President and CEO of Stentor Resource Centre Inc, she led the national marketing and technology development centre for Canada's nine telecommunications companies. Then as President and CEO of Lucent Technologies Canada from 1999 to 2003, she spearheaded the team that succeeded in tripling Lucent's market share in Canada despite an industry downturn.

Ms. Stephenson is a director of Sears Canada, ING Canada, and the Ottawa Airport Authority, and trustee of the Union Energy Waterheater Operating Trust. She also sits on the Government of Canada's External Advisory Group on Modernizing Human Resources Management in the Public Service, the board of the Communications Research Centre, the Government of Ontario's Council for Science and Innovation. She serves on the Boards of Directors of Ontario's Clean Water Legacy Trust and Partnerships British Columbia.

Ms. Stephenson has earned significant recognition for her community work and industry involvement. The “Canadian Women in Communications” association named her Woman of the Year in 1995 and in 2001, she received the acclaimed Woman of Distinction designation from the YWCA. In 2000, she was awarded an honorary doctorate in engineering from Ryerson Polytechnic University.

Ms. Stephenson is a graduate of the University of Toronto, the Executive Program at the Graduate School of Business Administration, University of California at Berkeley, as well as the Advanced Management Program offered by the Harvard Business School.
