Below are lists of undergraduate and graduate courses with ‘significant or recognized Aboriginal/Indigenous content’ that are currently being offered at Simon Fraser University. These have been defined and identified as such by the SFU Faculties and/or units themselves. Hence, no specific ‘percentage’ regarding Aboriginal content in courses has been identified or is gauged at this time.

This list will be amended as required or requested. As well, a message will periodically go out to Faculties and/or units to provide updated information.

For specific information concerning these courses please see the unit web links below, google the courses on SFU’s main web page, or contact the Faculties/units themselves.

Please note that some of the courses listed below are cross-listed which means only one of the two courses may be counted for credit. Where possible, course credit and Writing, Quantitative, and Breadth (WQB) designations are also listed for the courses.
