K’OMOKS/SFU
Archaeology Field School, Summer 2016
In Courtenay (Vancouver Island)

General Information

Dates: Summer Semester (May 9 to August 8, 2016)

Daily Schedule:
10:00 am - 5:00 pm, Monday through Thursday (while on-campus).
8:00 am - 4:00 pm, Monday through Friday (while in Courtenay)

Location: Burnaby campus (May to mid-June), then Courtenay (mid-June through July), then Burnaby campus (August 1-8).

Field work: The field project will involve archaeological field survey, site mapping and excavation on behalf of and in cooperation with the K’omoks First Nation, Courtenay British Columbia.

Courses:
Arch 433-3  Background to Fieldwork
Arch 434-3  Archaeological Field Methods
Arch 435-6  Field Practicum

Note: Students who have previously completed any of these courses may make arrangements for alternate course credit through the Department of Archaeology (Arch 479 and Arch 480 are commonly used as substitutions).

Program format: Four to five weeks of on-campus lectures, seminars, labs, and training exercises during which students will complete assignments associated with Arch 434 and Arch 433, followed by six to seven weeks of field work (Arch 435) on Vancouver Island, and one to two weeks of laboratory work at SFU.

Field School Instructor and Field Director: Dr. Bob Muir (SFU)

Field Director: Dr. Jesse Morin (K’omoks Nation Staff Archaeologist)

Who can apply: All SFU undergraduates. Preference will be given to Archaeology Majors who have completed Arch 372-5 and those students pursuing the Cultural Resource Management Certificate, but others are welcome and encouraged to apply.

Costs: The cost of tuition plus a field expense fee (approx. $1000.00) to cover costs associated with running the field camp (food and camping costs). Students will be responsible for their own transportation to and from Courtenay as well as providing their own personal camping equipment (tent, sleeping bag etc...), and basic excavation tools (trowel, tape measure, etc...).

Application Deadline: February 19, 2016 (submit completed application forms to the Department of Archaeology, main office, EDB 9635).

Application forms will be available here (mid December):
