Head Instructor – Badminton

Position & Camp Summary:
Simon Fraser University Camp Head Instructors are responsible for providing a safe, fun, and educational experience for campers aged 5-17. Head Instructors develop and implement age appropriate lessons and activities for their camp. They are a role model for younger campers and lead by example, by providing mentorship to fellow staff and volunteers. Badminton is a half day, one week camp for children aged 8-14 years. Badminton is an afternoon camp and is in session between 12:30-3:30PM. The Head Instructor of Badminton prepares and creates lessons and drills that place emphasis on developing fundamental Badminton skills. These skills include: serving, rallying, and learning the rules of the game. Non-Badminton skills include: practicing cooperation, sportsmanship, and teamwork skills. Badminton Camp is a rewarding experience that allows campers to learn a new sport in a fun and positive environment and is ideal for someone who is passionate about coaching and mentoring children.
