   MA/MSc/PhD in Interactive Arts & Technology
   The chair gave a brief history of the program being operated as cohort special arrangements, subsequent to SFU’s takeover of TechBC, and summarized that the cohort group would have the option of staying in the cohort program until completion, or transferring to the new program. There was a question regarding the comprehensive examination, which was addressed in the proposal. A member commented that R. Woodbury and the School had done an excellent job in modifying the program, with the support of the external reviewers.

   editorial changes, to make the course proposals and calendar entries consistent with the Global Assets & Wealth Management

   The committee noted that the program had been running as a cohort program for two years, and the faculty resource was not an issue. Library resources remain an unresolved issue — amount and base budget transfer.

   D. Fraser was invited to answer questions at 3:00 p.m. The chair suggested that the Library and the Faculty work towards a permanent solution. The guest departed at 3:12 p.m.

   It was moved and seconded that the program proposal be approved and forwarded to SCUP, pending resolution of funding issues at the Library.
9. Proposed cohort special arrangements: Faculty of Arts & Social Sciences (GS 2004.41)
   International Leadership
   It was moved and seconded that the cohort program proposal be approved.
   (M. Gillies/C. Sears)

   Motion carried

   The committee had a lengthy discussion regarding the proposed applied master’s program, and partnership between Capilano College and SFU. Its uniqueness, market demand and paid internship were stressed. Business Administration expressed its concern of huge overlap, textbooks, course outlines, and potential jeopardy of accreditation of SFU’s business school.

   T. Perry and guests from Capilano College, John Potts (dean of international education) and Mitra Kiamenesh (director of the graduate diploma program), were invited to meet with the committee at 3:55 p.m.

   The committee raised a number of questions, and the guests provided answers:
   a) History of the current diploma program and number of grads – successfully run program since 1987 with 600 grads and over 250 of whom remained in the field of work; the program had been funded by CIDA, government grant and premium fees, with its focus in Asia Pacific expanding to Latin America.
   b) Teaching and faculty resources were discussed – the Faculty was in the progress of sorting out appointments between Capilano and SFU personnel.
   c) Coursework was discussed – heavy business content, credit hours, intensity and highly interactive nature.

   The guests departed at 4:00 p.m. The chair summarized the concerns which needed to be addressed:
   a) Faculty issue - who would be teaching graduate level courses;
   b) Overlap and accreditation issues;
   c) Business of dual credentials – diploma and master’s;
   d) Coursework issue – required versus electives, serious concerns on description, credits and quality.

    Financial Risk Management E. Love was invited to meet with the committee at 4:07 p.m. The program proposal had been revised to address the following issues:
    a) The program title was changed to Financial Risk Management, to reflect the financial nature of risk management;
    b) Course proposals were changed and Economics was consulted;
    c) The label issue of MBA/MA/MSc was raised, and the faculty voted for MSc; other financial MSc programs in Canada were cited – Queen’s, UBC and U of Toronto.
The guest departed at 4:20 p.m. It was moved and seconded that the program proposal be approved.
(C. Smart/T. O’Shea)

Motion withdrawn

The motion was withdrawn after discussion. The committee expressed its concerns:

a) Objection to MSc designation;
b) Course proposals had not been forwarded to other faculties/departments for consultation and approval;
c) Appendix D – suggested list of faculty members – question of contact or agreement regarding teaching;
d) Program content would have to be revised due to overlap issue.

A question was also raised whether the program should be cohort special arrangements rather than a regular program proposal.

11. New business

The next meeting will be held on January 17, 2005.

Meeting was adjourned at 4:30 p.m.
