Indigenous Mentorship Network of the Pacific Northwest

CALL FOR PAPERS

DEADLINE EXTENDED: JANUARY 1, 2020

On June 1, 2020, The Arbutus Review*, in partnership with the Indigenous Mentorship Network of the Pacific Northwest (IMN-PN), will launch its first interdisciplinary Indigenous issue focused on Indigenous wellness. For this special issue, we invite all Indigenous undergraduate students from the University of Victoria, University of British Columbia, University of Northern British Columbia and Simon Fraser University to submit their work.

In addition to research articles and syntheses of literature, we encourage students to submit creative and artistic pieces including, but not limited to, poetry, story, or personal narrative. The work will be peer reviewed by an Indigenous graduate student who is under the mentorship of an Indigenous faculty member. In addition, an Indigenous Guest Editor will work closely with students and all Arbutus Review team members.

*The Arbutus Review is an annual peer-reviewed compilation of outstanding research articles submitted by undergraduate students from all disciplines at the University of Victoria. It provides a forum to present students’ work to other students, the campus community, high schools, funding agencies and corporations/organizations about the strength of student researchers.

Deadline: January 1, 2020. For submissions and author guidelines, please visit https://journals.uvic.ca/index.php/arbutus

For more information, please email IMN-PN Network Coordinator: imnpn@uvic.ca

The IMN-PN is generously supported by a grant from the Canadian Institutes of Health Research