The Office of Academic Integrity and Good Conduct operates within the Senate and Academic Services Unit, within Student Services. The office manages and administers the S 10 Code of Academic Integrity and Good Conduct Policy and provides leadership and guidance related to incidents of student crisis or threat as outlined in the GP 25 Response to Violence and Threatening Behaviour Policy. Staff are available to advise and support faculty and staff and work with departmental Academic Integrity Advisors to provide training to academic units upon request.

The Academic Integrity and Good Conduct Policy defines student’s basic responsibilities as academic community members, defines inappropriate student conduct, and provides procedures and penalties to be invoked if they engage in such unacceptable behavior.

Academic Integrity at Simon Fraser University

- SFU has adopted a zero tolerance for academic dishonesty. The Academic Integrity and Good Conduct Policy was revised and approved effective May 01 2009: http://www.sfu.ca/policies/gazette/student.html
- The success of this approach depends on instructors reporting incidents and applying the appropriate penalty. Instructors are encouraged to direct students to the Academic Integrity web site for more information http://students.sfu.ca/academicintegrity.html.
- Instructors can choose to use the electronic reporting system that makes it easy. Find directions here: https://courses.cs.sfu.ca/docs/discipline
- All SFU course outlines are now available in the Academic Calendar. Each course outline has a message dedicated to Academic Integrity, (see below) that provides consistency across the institution. Instructors are encouraged to augment this statement with their own standards and expectations as long as it does not contradict the code.
  - SFU’s Academic Integrity web site http://students.sfu.ca/academicintegrity.html is filled with information on what is meant by academic dishonesty, where you can find resources to help with your studies and the consequences of cheating. Check out the site for more information and videos that help explain the issues in plain English. Each student is responsible for his or her conduct as it affects the University community. Academic dishonesty, in whatever form, is ultimately destructive of the values of the University. Furthermore, it is unfair and discouraging to the majority of students who pursue their studies honestly.
Scholarly integrity is required of all members of the University.

- ACADEMIC INTEGRITY: YOUR WORK, YOUR SUCCESS

- Academic Integrity Advisors (faculty members) are in every department to assist all instructors with the process.

How you set a good example
- Know the policy!
- Be consistent.
- Be equitable.
- Respect privacy.
- Be unbiased.
- Attain conclusive evidence.
- Follow through.

Important steps in the process
- You must provide the student an opportunity to meet with you (individually preferable) so they can state their side of the situation.
- Present your evidence, don’t accuse, listen, wait for an explanation. Do not give the impression you have already made a decision or judgement. You can ask students to discuss their process, their conclusions.
- After you have met with the student you need to determine a penalty, if any, from the list of proscribed penalties in the policy (also listed on the incident report form). Take the time to consider the situation, a decision does not need to be made in the moment.
- Complete the incident report form and file one copy with your unit head and one copy with the Registrar’s office. Note there is an online version of this report https://courses.cs.sfu.ca/docs/discipline.
- Be sure students are aware they have the right to appeal. The best place to send students for assistance is to the ombuds office jsolman@sfu.ca

Student Conduct at Simon Fraser University

- SFU is committed to creating a scholarly community characterized by civility, diversity, free inquiry, mutual respect and individual safety.

- The Academic Integrity and Good Conduct Policy was revised and approved effective May 01 2009: http://www sfu ca/policies/gazette/student.html.

- The Response to Violence and Threatening Behaviour Policy was revised and approved effective March 21, 2013: http://www sfu ca/policies/gazette/general/gp25.html

- The success of this approach depends on faculty and staff:
  - distinguishing between behaviours of concern and instances of misconduct;
  - offering support and referrals for behaviours of concern (i.e. to Advising, Financial Aid, Health & Counselling Services; Student Learning Commons; etc.);
  - reporting instances of misconduct to Safety and Risk Services: non-emergency #2-3100; Burnaby emergency #2-4500; Surrey emergency #2-7511; Vancouver emergency #2-5252

- The Student Conduct officer is available for advice on how to deal with difficult students and can come to departments or academic units to present on the work of the office.

- The following are representative but not exhaustive of behaviors constituting misconduct:
  - harm, injure or threaten any person (in person or through electronic means);
  - disruptive or dangerous behavior;
  - behavior which results in damage, destruction and theft of University property or the property of any University member;
  - forgery or alteration of University documents or records;
  - misuse of University resources including information (computing) resources;
  - unauthorized entry or presence in University premises;
  - misuse of student disciplinary procedures.
