Upcoming Events—

February 4 or 25
Seminar on pp. 244-471 of Volume 3 of In Search of Lost Time Reading Group on 4 or 25 February. GLS Library

Contact Stephen Duguid at duguid@sfu.ca for more information about these upcoming events.

Open House—February 23, 2018 at 6:30pm

Graduate Liberal Studies is a small, close-knit program. We offer part-time, evening classes with full-time passion. Join a community of inquiry, discussion, and research. Come to an Open House: Friday February 23 at 6:30 pm. RSVP: glsp@sfu.ca

---

West Coast Liberal Studies Symposium
June 22-24, 2018 at Stanford University
More information on p2

---

Word-of-mouth is still the best form of advertising we have! Please encourage friends, family, neighbours or colleagues to attend our Open House.
2018 West Coast Graduate Liberal Studies Symposium

June 22-24, 2018 hosted by Stanford University

The 2018 Symposium will begin with a welcome reception on Friday evening from 6:00-8:00. We’ll begin Saturday morning with a continental breakfast and a brief welcome to everyone. There will be student and alumni presentations from 9:00 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., followed by a lunch on campus, and then presentations from 1:45 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Students and alumni will have dinner on their own. Sunday will begin again with a Continental Breakfast, followed by presentations from 9:30 a.m. - 11:00 a.m. Our closing session will be held from 11:15-11:30. For those who would like to (and we’d heartily recommend it!), there will be a no-host lunch at the café at the Cantor Art Gallery.

We have blocked rooms at the Sheraton Palo Alto (right across the street from the campus) at an excellent rate of $129 per night.

For more information:

https://glssymposium.stanford.edu

Call for Papers

Students and alumni of West Coast programs are invited to submit proposals to present a paper at the 2018 Symposium.

Selected presenters will give a 20-minute presentation at the symposium followed by 10 minutes of Q&A. Sessions run concurrently throughout the day on Saturday and on Sunday morning.

Students and alumni should submit their 250-word proposals electronically through the link below no later than March 21, 2018. Decisions on proposals will be released by mid-April. This is a great opportunity to present your work in front of a curious and supportive audience.

Due to the number of proposals submitted and our desire to create coherence in panels, not all proposal requests can be accommodated.

Proposals need to be submitted electronically here: https://glssymposium.stanford.edu/presenters-attendees/call-papers

Questions about writing up a proposal? Contact Jennifer Chutter at jennifer_chutter@sfu.ca
Shadbolt Scholars

Shadbolt Scholar Max Wyman recently completed his first play titled, Bluebell Time, which was part of the Kay Meek Play Reading Series. The one-act memory play explores the relationship between a mother and son during the 1930s-1940s in England, and then later in the 20th Century.

Shadbolt Scholar Michael Nicoll Yahgulanaas was recently featured on CBC discussing his new graphic novel War of the Blink. It is a retelling of a traditional Haida story featuring two warring groups trying to decide the fate of a coastal village in Haida Gwaii, BC.

---

Graduate Liberal Studies Program

Simon Fraser University
#2403—515 West Hastings Street
Vancouver, BC, V6B 5K3
778-782-5152
glsp@sfu.ca