Simons Series in the Social Dynamics of Peace and Conflict – Fall 2010 Update

Since March 2009, the School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University has been sponsoring a new seminar series that explores the social dynamics of peace and conflict. Generously funded by the Simons Foundation, the series will continue in the coming academic year, again being co-sponsored by the Liu Institute for Global Issues and the Security and Defence Program at the University of British Columbia. Such co-sponsorship is a win-win situation, allowing us to invite more speakers while also helping to build a broader and deeper community of expertise on key issues in contemporary international studies. In practical terms, this means that the venue for talks will alternate between SFU's Harbour Centre Campus and UBC's Liu Institute.

Each semester, one or two speakers will visit, giving both a public lecture and a research seminar. The intention is two-fold – to advance public awareness and debate over key issues of peace and conflict, and to promote research excellence. A preliminary schedule of speakers for Fall 2010 and Spring 2011 is provided below. All are most welcome to attend! To be added to the series e-mail distribution list, please send an e-mail to <intst@sfu.ca>.
