

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University and
The Human Security Report Project

present a seminar with

Professor MICHAEL SPAGAT

University of London

on

“TWO DECADES OF DEATH IN IRAQ”

Over the past 20 years there have been intense controversies within the advocacy and research communities over the human costs of UN sanctions on the population of Iraq and, more recently, over the death toll in the insurgency that followed the US-led invasion in 2003. Professor Spagat, a leading authority on conflict mortality, examines the huge variation in mortality estimates—and what causes them.

Friday, 17 February, 2012

11.00 – 1230

ROOM 2270, HARBOUR CENTER
515 West Hastings Street
Vancouver