SFU Department of Philosophy
Application for Teaching Assistantship for the Summer 2019 Term

Positions are posted on the Dean of Graduate Studies webpage and on the Department of Philosophy webpage. There you can also find additional links and resources, including a link to our departmental appointment priorities and to the TSSU Collective Agreement – please read article XIII regarding TA qualifications and responsibilities. Positions are subject to budgetary approval and dependent on course enrollments. When you apply, please be aware that a Teaching Assistant is required to sit in the lecture of the course assigned, in addition to running tutorial sections (a full TAship is 3 tutorial sections for W courses and 4 sections for the other courses) and being available for office hours (typically 2 hours per week). Do not apply for positions that interfere with your own class schedule or other employment/work schedule. Make sure to provide at least 3 options for TAships (more is better), or include a comment on why that is not possible.

IMPORTANT: Students who have completed the requirements for the MA and applied to graduate do not have priority for TAships according to TSSU rules. TAships can be awarded to former students only after all applicants that are current PHIL graduate students in good standing have received TA assignments (and no other qualified SFU graduate students have applied).

PLEASE ANSWER: Have you already completed your degree or do you anticipate the completion of your degree in the first month of the Summer term (and hence will not be registered for the coming term)? YES _____ NO______
