Tenure-track Faculty Position in Environmental Microbiology
Simon Fraser University
Position # 124978

The Department of Biological Sciences invites applications for a tenure-track (Assistant Professor) position in Environmental Microbiology.

The successful candidate will build a strong research program that focuses on some aspect of basic microbiology, environmental microbiology, and/or microbial toxicology. We expect the successful candidate to engage in graduate training and to contribute to teaching graduate and undergraduate courses in basic microbiology and in our Masters of Environmental Toxicology program. We value collaborative interactions within and across Departments and Faculties on campus and beyond SFU’s borders.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority.

Simon Fraser University, located in the greater Vancouver area, is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university. This position is subject to final budgetary approval.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, concise research statement including how their program would contribute to research strengths at SFU, a 1-page statement of teaching experience and philosophy, and names and contact information of 3 potential referees. All application materials should be submitted as a single pdf via an online application form:
