Dunya's on- and offline healthcare communications work builds healthy families across generations in the Canadian South Asian community, improving quality of life, reducing stigma around healthcare, and re-connecting people to their cultures while helping reduce the burden of cost on both citizens and the health care system.

We make people happy, healthy and more educated.

Kashif Pasta
Co-founder and Creative Director at Dunya. Kashif uses his communication, marketing and storytelling expertise to create engaging and impactful content. He is driven to change the way health communications is done in Canada.

Shyam Valera
Co-founder and Producer at Dunya. With a background in population health, Shyam helps create easy to understand and culturally relevant content. He also wants to be the next Bill Nye.