Hey! I’m Aaron, and I’m just a guy trying to spread peace, love and positivity in this world, so what better platform than Senate. I remember when I first started SFU and took my first commute to campus I was full of life with a big smile on my face and I was taking in all the sights, ready to start the next chapter in my life and I remember thinking to myself “I could get used to this”. Well I did, just not in the good way, I got used to expecting to pay another couple hundred for textbooks. Mind you these were textbooks for classes I didn’t even want to take but because I couldn’t get into the course of my choice I had to. But I eventually got used to that as well.

Platform

1. OPEN TEXTBOOKS
   The amount of money we pay for textbooks are absurd! Especially since we have 2% daily increases in our tuition (I’d try to stop that, but Senate doesn’t oversee tuition).

2. ACCESS TO COURSES
   There needs to be more courses offered for more students to gain access to the courses they actually need. Otherwise why are we accepting a 2% daily increase in our tuition. This is our money we should decide where it goes.

3. FALL READING BREAK
   Reading break is essential for our mental health, many of us work part-time or even full-time jobs and to the world’s surprise we also like to have a social life! But our heavy course loads just won’t let us do it all. That is why Reading break is essential to catch up on other parts of our life. That’s why if elected I will be advocating for a fall reading break.
