Sterling Prize in Support of Controversy
Nomination Form

Name of Nominee

Address

Affiliation with SFU

Information to be included in Nomination Package:

1. Description of the Nominee’s work and the reasons for considering it for this Prize. The nature of the controversy must be thoroughly documented. Don’t assume that the work speaks for itself in terms of its controversial nature. Describe how it has been controversial and where the discussions have been taking place; i.e. in the academic realm, or in more broadly based forums.

2. Include evidence of the controversy, such as reviews or other assessments, newspaper clippings, editorial comments, etc.

3. References: include copies of articles or books and/or websites where the nominee’s work can be found. (Materials can be returned, on request.)

4. Other supporting material, where applicable.

On request, Committee members are available to offer guidance in the preparation of nomination packages. Contact vpacad@sfu.ca for referral to the Sterling Prize Committee.
