

BREADTH COURSES

DEPARTMENT OF ARCHAEOLOGY

Department of Archaeology courses provide students with an introduction to a variety of topics in archaeology.

B-Soc courses explore how humans historically interacted with the world, considering different social, economic, and regional factors.

B-Sci courses explore topics including human origins and human interactions with the environment.

B-Hum courses explore major art traditions and significant religious and cultural developments around the world.

The following is a list of all designated Breadth course options offered by the Department of Archaeology. No specialized knowledge of archaeology is required to excel in these courses.

Breadth-Humanities

- ARCH 301-3: Ancient Visual Art

Breadth-Humanities/Social Science

- ARCH 226-3: The Prehistory of Religion: Shamans, Sorcerers and Saints
- ARCH 252-3: Ancient Egypt and Africa

Breadth-Social Science

- ARCH 100-3: Ancient Peoples and Places
- ARCH 201-4: Reconstructing the Human Past
- ARCH 273-4: Archaeology of the New World

Breadth-Social Science/Science

- ARCH 131-3: Human Origins
- ARCH 200-3: Selected Topics in World Prehistory

Quantitative/Breadth-Science

- ARCH 285Q-4: Archaeological Science

Writing/Breadth-Social Science

- ARCH 272W-4: Archaeology of the Old World

Who to Contact

Vlad Vintila
Archaeology Undergraduate Advisor
Department of Archaeology
Tel: 778.782.3519
EDB 9633
archadv@sfu.ca