Project: English use by Filipino-Canadians in Vancouver

You are being invited to participate in a sociolinguistics study exploring language use. In particular, this project looks at how second-generation Filipino Canadians use English in Vancouver, BC.

Potential participants will be
- Filipino-Canadians
- Born to Filipino parents
- Either born in the Greater Vancouver Area, or came to Vancouver before the age of 10
- Raised in the GVA
- Between the ages of 19 and 30
- Attained some post-secondary degree or working towards one
- Male or female

The session will be divided into three parts: the first is a semi-structured interview revolving around the participant’s reflection on their language use. The second and third are elicitation tasks where the participants will be asked to read aloud texts. The researcher has allotted approximately one hour for this session and will take place either at the participant’s home, or at SFU in the researcher’s lab. Times are flexible and will be decided by both the participant and the researcher. Participants will receive a $10 gift card to Starbucks.
