Concept

A Community for Aquatic Systems

Coastal Connections Vancouver (CCV) will bring together professionals working on aquatic systems within universities, NGOs, government, and industry to network, share knowledge, and create synergies for future projects. By connecting like-minded individuals and organizations, CCV will enhance the ability of participants to achieve research and conservation goals.

Format

CCV will host quarterly evening events in downtown Vancouver. At the event, several small ‘sound bytes’ of recent research and conservation action from each sector will be highlighted through multi-media. Informal ice-breaker activities will encourage attendees to build connections with participants from other organizations.

Benefits

- Stay current on new research and policies
- Find out about new aquatic science opportunities
  - Connect with like-minded groups
  - Expand your collaborative network

CCV is seeking support to initiate two events in 2012. Assistance is required to fund facility reservation, refreshments, and advertising. Support received for CCV events will be highlighted in all communications and at the Coastal Connections events themselves.
