

Emotion and Cognition in Medieval and Early Modern Philosophy

Simon Fraser University Department of Philosophy

All sessions will be held at SFU-Vancouver at Harbour Centre

Friday, 2 May 2008

9:15 Peter King (University of Toronto): “Dispassionate Passions”
Commentator: Robert Pasnau (University of Colorado, Boulder)

10:45 Dominik Perler (Humboldt Universität Berlin): “Why is the Sheep Afraid of the Wolf?”
Commentator: Henrik Lagerlund (University of Western Ontario)

1:30 Dennis Des Chene (Washington University, St. Louis): “Using the Passions”
Commentator: Deborah Brown (University of Queensland)

3:00 Graduate Student Presentations with Katherina Paxman (University of Western Ontario) and Kate Waidler (Cornell)

5:00 Lilli Alanen (Uppsala University): “Spinoza on the passions and self knowledge: The Case of Pride”
Commentator: Amy Schmitter (University of Alberta)

Saturday, 3 May 2008

9:30 Lisa Shapiro (Simon Fraser University): “How we experience the world: Passionate Perception in Descartes and Spinoza”
Commentator: Alison Simmons (Harvard University)

11:00 Paul Hoffman (University of California, Riverside): “Reasons, Causes and Inclinations”
Commentator: Lyle Crawford (Simon Fraser University)

2:15 Martin Pickavé (University of Toronto): “Adam Wodeham and his Critics on Emotions as Cognitions”
Commentator: Claude Panaccio (Université du Québec à Montréal)

3:45 Simo Knuuttila (University of Helsinki): “Sixteenth-century Discussions of the Passions of the Will”
Commentator: Ian Drummond (University of Toronto)