

Marking Guidelines

Draw a simple sketch (if applicable).

Define your variables and label them on the sketch (if applicable).

Clearly show the steps in your reasoning.

Units: carry the units through in your calculations. This will help you check for mistakes in your calculations.

Significant figures. Be sensible. Don't quote too many or too few. A good rule of thumb is 2-3 for the final answer.