THINKING OF THE WORLD

Introduction

Since its establishment in 1982, the Gerontology Research Centre (GRC) has focused on the issue of “aging and the built environment” as one of its primary responsibilities. Activities in this area include:

1. Conducting research into the housing needs and preferences of older Canadians and adults with special needs.
2. Publishing the result of research conducted by the GRC staff and other researchers in books, reports, and articles in scholarly journals and technical magazines.
3. Publishing a special newsletter, the Seniors’ Housing Update. As its name suggests, this twice-yearly publication features articles on current issues, innovative housing design, public policy, etc. Authors include SFU researchers as well as guest authors from the local, national and international architectural and urban and regional planning communities, real estate developers and marketers, interior design professionals, etc.
4. Coordinating and participating in conferences, workshops and working groups to disseminate information on and increase awareness of the housing needs, preferences and concerns of Canada’s elderly and adults with disabilities.
5. Operating an information and consulting service and maintaining a library collection to respond to requests for information, advice and assistance from members of the design community, planners, developers, government agencies, students and teaching faculty, researchers, the media and consumers.
