

Research Topic and Annotated Bibliography Worksheet

Prepared by Andy Hira, update: Jan. 11, 2009

1. Is the Topic Important, Policy Relevant, and of Current Interest?

2. Is the Topic/Objective Clear?

- eg multiple topics, no clear question at hand
- rhetorical statement or pure critique- no problem/issue of contention, biased, or no proposal

3. Is the Scope Appropriate and Feasible for the Output and Time Available?

- too general or too narrow
- feasibility unclear
- inconsistent literature vs. problem identified

4. Does the Annotated Bibliography Seem Complete?

- Does there seem to be a representative sample of the relevant works?
- Are all the major literature and logical perspectives considered?
- Are there notes and categories of the literature included with the paper?
- What does the bibliography indicated about the topic?

5. Is there a Review of Potential Data Sources?
