9. Organize the publishing of the proceedings of the CCICED Annual General Meeting, Annual Policy Report and other publications;

10. Establish broad partnerships; organize cooperation with domestic and international organizations.

11. Undertake such other work as may be required by leaders such as the Secretary General.
Annex 4
Measures related to the Management of CCICED Research Projects

I. Formation of the Policy Study Projects

CCICED shall conduct policy research studies in the following four forms: task force, special policy study, case study and policy demonstration project:

1. Task Forces: CCICED Task Forces will focus their policy research studies on wide-ranging, high priority, difficult and complex issues. The duration of research activities of each Task Force will normally be 12-18 months. Each Task Force research team will normally comprise 5 Chinese and 5 international members, including one Chinese Co-chair and one International Co-chair;

2. Special Policy Studies: Special Policy Studies will focus on current specific urgent issues of limited scope. The term of each special policy study will normally be 6-8 months. Special Policy Study teams will normally comprise 3 Chinese and 3 international members, including one Chinese Co-chair and one International Co-chair.

3. Case Studies: Case Studies will normally focus on a specific event as a case study which can provide experience that can lead to policy improvements. The term of each case study will normally be 6-8 months. Study teams can comprise approximately 3 Chinese and 3 international members, including one Chinese Co-chair and one International Co-chair.

4. Policy Demonstration Projects: Policy Demonstration Projects will test and improve the implementation of specific CCICED policy recommendations on the part of local governments, and provide a basis for the broader implementation of CCICED policy recommendations elsewhere. The term of each policy demonstration project will normally be 6-12 months. Normally, policy demonstration project teams will comprise 3 Chinese and 3 international members, including one Chinese Co-chair and one International Co-chair.

II. Initiation of Policy Study Projects

1. Annual policy research framework: The CCICED Chinese Chief Advisor and International Chief Advisor and their supporting expert group will submit suggestions on the general framework for policy research for each CCICED Annual General Meeting to the CCICED Secretary General and Executive Chairpersons for their review and approval.
2. Development of policy research study topics and policy study project Concept Papers: Policy research study topics should be developed that are consistent with the general policy study framework for each year and be based on the requirements of State leaders of China or the suggestions of CCICED Members or CCICED Chinese and international partners. Topics may also be put forward by CCICED’s Chief Advisors and their supporting expert group. A project Concept Paper for each topic (the format of a project Concept Paper is shown in Annex 1) will be submitted together with suggestions for study topics. The Chief Advisors and their supporting expert group will be responsible for, or for overseeing, the development of project Concept Papers.

III. Approval of Policy Study Projects

1. Selection of Policy Study Projects: The CCICED Chief Advisors will be responsible for reviewing project Concept Papers with the assistance of the Supporting Experts Group and for submitting suggestions whether, based on their relevance, technical merit, and feasibility, the proposed studies should be included in the Council’s work plan. Based on the comments and suggestions of the Chief Advisors on the project Concept Papers, the Secretariat will select research projects that are feasible in the context of the CCICED’s annual budget and submit them to the CCICED Bureau Meeting for approval after the approval of the Secretary General.

2. Project Approval: The establishment of a CCICED Task Force shall be approved by the CCICED Bureau Meeting. Special policy studies, case studies and policy demonstration projects can be approved by the CCICED Secretary General.

IV. Development of the Outline of a Research Project

Based on the approved study topics and Concept Paper, the CCICED Chief Advisors and their Supporting Experts Group will be responsible for developing, or overseeing the development of, the detailed Outline of each study project (Annex 2 shows the format of the Outline). The Outline will identify the specific requirements needed to reach the objectives of the policy study within the budget made available, as well as the tasks, outputs and schedule of the research project. The assistance of external experts may be arranged if necessary.

V. Establishment of the Project Research Team

1. Recommendation: Based on the Project Outline, the CCICED Chief Advisors will propose candidates for the positions of Chinese and International Co-Chairs and for members of the research project team after consultation with the Secretariat. The Secretariat will issue official invitations after review and approval by the Secretary General. Each Chinese Co-Chair will designate a Chinese head organization for technical support that will be in charge of the routine operations of the project during the implementation period. The Chinese Co-Chair
(including the Chinese Coordinator organizing technical support within the designated Chinese organization) and team members should have research competence in fields relevant to the policy research topic. Young and middle-aged experts with high academic reputations and proficient English language skills will be given priority during the selection of members. Members should be sought from a range of relevant and qualified institutions or organizations.

2. Bidding: CCICED will identify the Chinese research team through bidding if necessary. If bidding is used, the CCICED Secretariat will be responsible for the tender process and for awarding contracts. The CCICED Chief Advisors and their supporting expert group shall assist with the evaluation of bids. The Secretariat will conduct bidding only for Task Forces initially. Later, if this practice is successful, it will be gradually applied to all policy study projects.

3. The CCICED Chief Advisors and their supporting expert group shall not serve as team member of CCICED Policy Study Projects, but will monitor their progress closely and provide assistance and advice as needed.

VI. Inception and Implementation of Research Projects

1. Inception

The Chinese and International Co-Chairs shall issue the draft agenda for the inception meeting of the policy research project after consultation with Chinese and international team members. The Chinese head organization will organize and convene the inception meeting with the approval of the CCICED Secretariat. The CCICED Chief Advisors and their Supporting Experts Group and the Secretary General shall attend the inception meeting when possible.

2. Development of the Project Implementation Plan

Based on the Project Outline, Chinese and international Co-chairs should develop a more detailed Project Implementation Plan, detailing such matters as the research plan, the division of tasks, the allocation of budget, as a schedule including milestones and deadlines. The Project Implementation Plan shall be subject to the review of the Chief Advisors’ team and Secretariat and reported to the Secretary General for approval if necessary. The Project Implementation Plan should not make any substantial change to the Project Outline unless it can be demonstrated that revisions to the Outline will facilitate attaining project objectives. Any necessary substantial change should be subject to the approval of the CCICED Chief Advisors, and the Secretariat should report the change to the CCICED Secretary General for approval.
3. Implementation

The Project Implementation Plan shall serve as the basis for implementation, management, and monitoring of the work of the research study project. Research teams should carry out work according to the Plan and complete all necessary research tasks. Based on this Plan, the Secretariat will supervise the project’s progress and provide necessary management support. The CCICED Chief Advisors and their Supporting Experts Group should closely monitor project progress, attend necessary working meetings of project teams and provide suggestions as needed.

If it becomes evident in the course of the work that a revision to the Implementation Plan will expedite progress or enhance the quality of the policy research, the Chinese Co-Chair, in consultation with the International Co-Chair, should seek the approval of the Chief Advisors and the Secretariat.

4. Contract Management

The CCICED Secretariat is responsible for the management of the project contract and signing of the Project Implementation Contract with the Chinese team. The CCICED International Supporting Office will assist the Secretariat and be responsible for the administration of contracts with the international research team if necessary.

5. Assessment

CCICED will carry out interim and final assessments of the policy research project as needed. The Chief Advisors and their supporting expert group will be in charge of organizing the assessments; they will invite external experts if necessary. The project research team should conduct necessary revisions to its research work and its outputs based on the assessments’ comments.

VII. Research Findings

The reports of CCICED Task Forces, Special Policy Studies, Case Studies and Policy Demonstration Projects will be published in the name of the Council or the name of the Council’s Task Forces or Special Policy Study teams.

The findings of CCICED policy research projects belong to CCICED. Any publication of findings for commercial purpose must be approved in advance by the CCICED Secretariat.

Apart from the submission of policy project study reports in accordance with the contract, research teams should prepare entries for the bulletin on policy research, which will be circulated to relevant departments by the Secretariat as needed after review by the Chief Advisors and their Supporting Experts Group.

VIII. Implementation of Routine Management of the Research Project

1. Responsibility of the Co-chair and Chinese head organization

Responsibility of the Co-chair:

The Chinese and International Co-chairs are responsible for the implementation of research project, including:

- Developing the Project Implementation Program and work plan;
- Supervising project experts to ensure submission of research findings according to the work plan;
- Taking final responsibility for the project’s progress reports, interim reports, and Final Report;
- Taking part in important activities according to requirements, including the CCICED Annual General Meeting;
- Attending the joint meeting of the CCICED Chief Advisors and the Secretariat to provide a briefing on project progress and to receive comments and suggestions from participants;
- Managing and controlling the project budget.

Responsibility of the Chinese head organization:

Under the leadership of the Chinese Co-chair, the project’s Chinese head organization is responsible for the implementation of the project’s routine activities, including:

- Assisting in the coordination of routine contacts between Co-chairs and each of the team members, and facilitating smooth progress of the project’s research work;
- Organizing team meetings, coordinating arrangements for domestic and international travel, and providing other logistic and administrative support as required by the Implementation Plan;

- Submitting the Project Progress Report to the Secretariat each quarter and submitting entries for the research bulletin in time;

- Maintaining on-going contact with the Secretariat and reporting policy research progress and problems to the Secretariat in a timely manner.

2. Responsibility of the Chief Advisors and their supporting expert group

- Review or draft Project Concept Papers;

- Develop or oversee the development of Project Outlines and review Project Implementation Plans;

- Nominate Chinese and International Co-chairs and team members for the research project;

- Take part in the evaluation of bids for Chinese research teams;

- Track project development and progress; take part in important activities such as the meetings of the research project team; guide and advise on research work in a timely manner;

- Review thoroughly and in a timely manner all project interim/progress and final reports and recommendations to the Council’s Annual General Meetings and require teams to make revisions as needed in order to ensure that all reports are of the highest possible quality and meet international standards.

- Conduct or make arrangements for the interim and final assessment of research projects if necessary.

3. Responsibility of the CCICED Secretariat

In consultation with the Chief Advisors and their Supporting Experts Group, the CCICED Secretariat oversees the implementation of research projects to ensure that research and recommendations are of high quality. The principal tasks of the Secretariat in this regard include the following:

- Assist with the preparation of the Project Inception Meeting;

- Monitor development and progress of research projects and help address specific problems that arise in the course of the research activities;

- Take part in the interim assessment and final assessment of the research project;

- Negotiate and sign the project contract in China and advance research funds promptly based on clear criteria related to project progress;

- Invite Co-chairs to take part in major activities including the CCICED AGM;

- Report the policy research findings in CCICED publications.
