Two talks by Marilyn Waring
on MARCH 16

Women & Economics
at Simon Fraser University Burnaby Campus: 12:30 - 1:30 Halpern Centre, Room 126.
Followed by a reception in the Halpern Centre Lounge

The Environment
The Koerner Lecture
at the Robson Square Conference Centre – Judge McGill
Theatre: 7 pm

In 1975 Dr. Waring became the youngest member in the New Zealand Parliament. At the age of 24 she became the Chairperson of the Public Expenditures Committee. During the course of her work she discovered that, world wide, no country’s accounting system took into account the work of women and the cost of environmental damage. Dr. Waring is a feminist economist with a Ph.D. in Political Economy, a development consultant, a farmer, an activist for "female human rights" and is currently a senior lecturer at Massey University, Auckland, New Zealand. Her first book, If Women Counted: The New Feminist Economics, was released in 1989 and was the basis of a Canadian National Film Board production Who's Counting? Her latest book is The Three Masquerades: Equality, Work and Human Rights.

PARKLAND INSTITUTE
National Sponsor of the Marilyn Waring Canadian Tour