

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Head: R. J. Baker

Course Requirements in First Four Semesters

Students who plan to study English must obtain credit for the courses listed below in their first four semesters:

For general program - major in English -
English 101-3, 102-3, 103-3, 201-3, 111-3

For honors program in English -
English 101-3, 102-3, 103-3, 201-3

- Note:
1. English 101-3, 102-3, 103-3 may be taken in any order in the first three semesters.
 2. English 111-3 may be taken in any of the first four semesters.
 3. Students not specializing in English may take any of the courses described.

Foreign Languages: Most graduate schools require some proficiency in one or two foreign languages. Those who contemplate graduate studies in this field are advised to include foreign language courses in their program.

PRESENTATION OF COURSES

	Courses to be offered
Fall Semester 1966	English 001-0, 101-3, 102-3, 111-3, 201-3 Upper division courses to be announced later
Spring Semester 1967	English 001-0, 101-3, 102-3, 103-3, 111-3, 201-3
Summer Semester 1967	English 001-0, 101-3, 102-3, 111-3, 201-3

Description of Courses

Composition

English 001-0 Writing

The principles and practice of expository writing - reports, essays, precis, etc. (1-1-0)

Literature

English 101-3 Twentieth Century Fiction

The study of representative short stories and novels. (2-1-0)

English 102-3 Twentieth Century Verse
The study of representative poets.

SM 3/1/66 Assess
(2-1-0)

English 103-3 Twentieth Century Drama
The study of representative plays.

(2-1-0)

English 201-3 The Study of Literature

An examination of a number of critical approaches to literature--the biographical, historical, linguistic, symbolic, etc.. The course will also include elementary bibliography, library techniques, the research essay, etc. It will be given by a number of members of the Department.

(2-1-0)

English Language

English 111-3 The Study of Language

This course will examine a number of different kinds of descriptions of the English language. Attention will be given to recent theories of English grammar, phonology, dialect geography, usage, and lexicography.

(2-1-0)

PREREQUISITES TO ENGLISH MAJOR OR HONOURS: English 101, 102, 103, 111, 201

Students wishing to major or take Honours in English may follow either Plan A or Plan B:

PLAN A

Honours:

The Honours student will take a minimum of 50 hours of upper-division work. 30 hours of this work will consist of six 5-hour courses (i.e. 3 hours of lectures and 2 hours of seminar), one from each of the following pairs:

English

- | | |
|---|--|
| 401-5 Chaucer | or 402-5 Tudor Studies (e.g. Spenser) |
| 403-5 Shakespeare | or 404-5 Seventeenth Century Studies |
| 405-5 Eighteenth Century Studies | or 406-5 Studies in Romanticism |
| 407-5 Nineteenth Century Studies | or 408-5 English Novel A (the beginning to Austen) |
| | or |
| 410-5 American Literature A (beginning to 1860) | or 409-5 English Novel B (Dickens to Conrad) |
| | or 411-5 American Literature B (1860 - 1900) |
| 412-5 Studies in the English Language | or 413-5 Studies in Criticism |

The balance of required work (20 hours) and any additional work in English that the student elects to do may be chosen from among any of the remaining alternatives above and from the following courses:

- 414-5 Modern American Studies
- 415-5 Modern British Studies
- 416-5 Canadian Literature
- 417-5 Special Studies A, B, etc.

These 20 or more hours' work may consist of any approved arrangement of full 5-hour courses (lectures and seminars), 3-hour courses (lectures only), and 2-hour courses (seminars only).

SM 31. 166

Beccard

Major:

The English Major will take a minimum of 30 hours of upper-division work. 20 hours of this work will consist of four 5-hour courses drawn from any four of the pairs of required courses listed above. The balance of required work (10 hours) and any additional work in English that the student elects to do may consist of any arrangement of other Departmental courses taken for five, three, or two hours' credit.

PLAN B

Honours:

The Honours student will take a minimum of 50 hours of upper-division work of his choice. He may take courses for five, three, or two hours' credit. At the end of his senior year he will write a comprehensive examination.

Major:

The English Major will take a minimum of 30 hours of upper-division work of his choice. He may take courses for five, three, or two hours' credit. At the end of his senior year he will write a comprehensive examination.