MEMORANDUM

To Dr. K.T. Strand
President
Chairman of Senate

Subject Membership of the Review
Committees for the Departments of the Faculty of Arts

From D.H. Sullivan, Dean
Faculty of Arts

Date February 27, 1970

In accordance with Paper S 224 and S 309 the Faculty of Arts submits to you its membership for these committees and the order in which the departments will be reviewed. Under Section III.4.c. I point out to you that the direct competence of the members of these review committees in the disciplines (subject areas) of the departments under review is minimal, if the term "competence" is construed in the same manner it would be construed to assess someone for a position in a given department under review. The competence of the committee members is general. All members of the committees are members in good standing of the Faculty of Arts and hold positions in the various departments. All members of the committees were chosen by their colleagues as persons of goodwill and competence to examine those matters charged to the committees by Senate.

For the information of Senate a short curriculum vitae giving the background of each reviewer is attached.

Will you please take the order of review for departments and the constitution review committees for the designated departments at your earliest possible convenience so that the Faculty may proceed to compile its reports.

D.H. Sullivan

CURRICULUM VITAE OF A. H. SOMJEE

Name: A. H. Somjee

Age: 44 years (3-10-1925)

Address: Department of Political Science, Sociology & Anthropology,
Simon Fraser University,
Burnaby 2, B.C., Canada.

Marital Status: Married, no children.

Qualifications: M.A. (Political Science) Agra University, 1948, First Class
Ph.D. (Political Theory) The London School of Economics, 1955
Title of Ph.D. dissertation: 'Some Methodological Aspects of John Dewey's Political Philosophy.'

Fellowships: I was awarded the London School of Economics Fellowship for Overseas Students in 1953-54.

Specialization: Empirical Political Theory, Society and Politics of South Asia; and Politics of Small Communities.
(I have been giving courses, undergraduate as well as graduate, on these and related areas at Simon Fraser University.)

Present Position: Professor of Political Science, Simon Fraser University.

Academic Career: 1948-56: Lecturer in Political Science, M.B. College, Udaipur (Rajasthan University).

1956-60: Reader in Political Science, M.S. University of Baroda.

1960-65: Professor of Political Science, M.S. University of Baroda.

1965-66: Associate Professor of Political Science, Simon
Fraser University.

1966 onwards: Professor of Political Science, Simon Fraser University.

Visiting Professorships:

1961-62: The London School of Economics

In 1961, I was invited by the London School of Economics as a visiting professor. There I gave twenty lectures and classes on government and politics of India, Pakistan and Ceylon to students of B.Sc. (Econ.). I also gave six lectures on political behaviour in Indian villages to students of sociology. I set the B.Sc. (Econ.) paper on the former for the University of London for the year 1962.

In 1962, I was invited by the School of Oriental and African Studies to give three seminars on the nature of political activity in Indian villages.

During my stay in Europe in 1961-62, I was also invited to read papers by the Universities of Liverpool, Durham, Edinburgh, and Ecole Pratique des Hautes Etudes, Paris. In December 1961, I participated in a seminar on political developments in South and Southeast Asia since independence, held at St. Antony's College, Oxford.

1964-65: University of Durham

In 1964, I was invited to fill the leave vacancy of Professor Morris-Jones at the University of Durham. There I gave a course of lectures on recent political theory and another on society and politics of India.

During my stay in England in 1964-65 I was invited to read papers by Universities of Manchester, Leeds, and Birmingham.

1969: Nuffield College, Oxford

I was invited to become a member of the Senior Common Room at Nuffield College, Oxford for the Hilary term, January to March, 1969. During February-March 1969, I gave papers at Oxford, Liverpool and Swansea.

Research Grants:

In 1966, I was awarded research grants by the Canada Council, the Koerner Foundation and Simon Fraser University to study election and politics of a small town in India during the general election of 1967.

1968: The Canada Council gave me a second grant to complete my field-work in India.

Publications:

Books:

1. Voting-behaviour in an Indian Village (Baroda, M.S. University of Baroda Press, 1959). Editorially reviewed in Manchester Guardian, 3rd March, 1959.
2. Politics of a Periurban Community in India, edited and introduced by me. (Bombay, Asia Publishing House, 1964).
3. Glass Curtain between Asia and Europe, Ragvan Iyer (ed.), Oxford, Clarendon, 1965. I contributed a chapter on "India's attitude to Europe". The book was translated into French (1965), and German (1968).

4. Equality, NOMOS volume (New York, Atherton Press, 1967). I contributed a chapter on "Application of Equality in Hinduism".
5. Political Science in South and Southeast Asia, S.S. Biscush (ed.) 1967. I contributed a chapter on "Political Science in India".
6. The Political Theory of John Dewey, with a forward by Professor Richard McKeon. (New York, Columbia University Teachers College Press, 1968).

This manuscript has had very favourable pre-publications reviews. Some of them are as follows:

- i. "It is a distinguished work of analysis." Richard McKeon, Professor of Philosophy, Chicago University.
- ii. "This is one of the very best treatments of Dewey's social philosophy." Herbert Schneider, formerly formerly Professor of Philosophy, Columbia University.
- iii. "This is an excellent book, thoroughly scholarly but quite readable in style. It is well organized, well conceived and well written. It is sorely needed," Reginald Archambault, Associate Professor of Education, Brown University.
- iv. "I am looking forward to publishing what promises to be one of the most important books in the sixty-five year history of the Press." Richard de Haan, formerly Director, Teachers College Press.

Books in Preparation:

1. Democracy and Political Change in Village India.
This manuscript has been completed and submitted to a university press in the United States and another in the United Kingdom. Their replies are awaited.
2. Politics of Two MLA Villages. I have edited and written the introduction to the book. This will likely be published by Asia Publishing House, Bombay, in 1970.
3. I am currently working on a book which I would like to call by the title of Politics of Accommodation: Modernization and Political Dissent in an Indian Town. This is about a small town in western India called Anand. During 1966-67, I did intensive field work there. I was assisted in my work by a team of seven research assistants. I again visited Anand for another spell of field work, September to December, 1968. I hope to get the book ready for publication by 1970.

Papers:

1. "Some Problems of Verification in T.D. Weldon's Political Theory," Indian Journal of Political Science, 1957.
2. "Four Communisms," QUEST, 1957.
3. "Oriental Despotism," QUEST, 1958
4. "Problems Confronted in the Rejuvenation of Political Theory," Indian Political Science Journal, 1960.
5. "Political Philosophy of Rabindranath Tagore," Indian Political Science Journal, 1961.
6. "Motivations and Propaganda," SEMINAR, 1962.
7. "Groups and Individuals in the Politics of an Indian Village," POLITICAL-STUDIES ASIAN SURVEY (California University Press) 1962.
8. "Forms and Levels of Political Activity in Indian Villages", POLITICAL STUDIES, (Oxford, Claredon), 1963.
9. "The Problem of Value in recent Political Theory," QUEST, 1963.
10. "Periurban Politics in India," ASIAN SURVEY, 1963.
11. "Political Finance in India," with G. Somjee, Journal of Politics (Florida), 1963.

Papers in Preparation:

1. "Conformity, Rationality and Frivolity in Indian Elections;" (I hope to have this ready by October, 1969)
2. "Democracy as an Agent of Change in Rural India," (I hope to have this ready by December, 1969).

Book Reviews:

1. Review of Britain in India, A Nation in Making, Indian Nationalism and Hindu Social Reform, and Government in Rural India, in Political Quarterly, 1965.
2. Politics and Social Change in Journal of Commonwealth Political Studies, 1965.
3. Factional Politics in Uttar Pradesh, in Pacific Affairs, 1966
4. Unity and Diversity in India and Ceylon, Journal of Commonwealth Studies, 1969 (to be published).

International Conferences:

1. The International Political Science Association held a round-table at Oxford in 1963 on decentralization. I was invited to contribute a paper on "Recent Indian Experience of Decentralization."
2. The International Political Science Association held another round-table at Bombay in 1964, on Leadership and Public Opinion. I was invited to contribute a paper on "Village Leadership in Transition: A Case Study."
3. I was invited to give a talk on election studies in India by the International Political Science Association at its session in Geneva, 1964.

CURRICULUM VITAE

Name: Raymond Earl Jennings
Address: 7119 Curtis, Burnaby 2
Nationality: Canadian Birthdate: January 12, 1942
Marital Status: married, 2 children

Education:

Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School 1954-1959;
Senior Matriculation (Grade XIII), 1959
Queen's University 1959-1962 (B.A. 1962)
Honours Year (1962-63)
Queen's University 1964-1965 (M.A. 1965)
University of London 1965 to 1967 (Ph.D. 1967)
Oxford University 1969 - recognized student

Teaching and Research experience:

From January to June, 1964 I taught English and History in the Protestant High School, Chibougamau, Quebec, and returned to Queen's for M.A. studies the following summer. During the 1964-65 session at Queen's, I tutored individual undergraduates in logic and metaphysics, in addition to tutoring larger groups in logic and marking logic exercises for the introductory philosophy course.

My M.A. thesis was an examination of the formal properties of preference and choice; in it, I attempted to demonstrate, among other things, that the explanatory role of preferences provides a correlator-relation which guarantees that a set of formal properties of choice are also formal properties of preference. A condensed version of part of this thesis has been accepted for publication in Mind.

My Ph.D. thesis was entitled Topic Neutral Expressions, but is mainly concerned with the syntax of lists formed with "and" and "or", and with the relation between distributive properties and meaning and the consequences of the logic of lists for Deontic Logic and Practical Inference.

From September 1967 to present, I have been Assistant Professor at Simon Fraser University. I have taught mainly senior undergraduate and graduate courses (see attached list)

Awards:

Ontario Government Graduate Fellowship 1964-65
Canada Council Fellowship 1965-66, offered again for 1966-67
Commonwealth Scholarship 1966-68
Canada Council Leave Fellowship 1969

Publications:

"Purpleness, a reply to Mr. Roxbee Cox" Analysis, January, 1965
(approximate length, 1800 words)

"'Or'", Analysis, June, 1966 (approximate length, 1800 words)

"Preference and Choice as Logical Correlates", accepted, January, 1966, for publication in Mind (approximate length, 5400 words) Xerox copies of proofs available. Published October 1967.

Various Book Reviews

Papers to Learned Societies:

"A Problem with Hintikka's APKK* and CKK* Rules" from Philosophical Assoc., December 1967

Manuscripts Completed:

The Duality of "And" and "Or": An Essay in the Phenomenology of Logic

Manuscripts in Preparation:

1. Logical Relations Weaker and Stronger Than Entailment
2. The Vocabulary of Mind and Sense

My main philosophical interest lies in the more formal areas of the Philosophy of Language, the relation between formal Deontic Logic and the logic of ethical argument and practical inference, the relation between implication-relations of formal calculi and entailment, and with the possibilities of formalization of sectors of language. I have broader interests in the issues of philosophical psychology, such as the concept of human action, motivation, intention, the identity problem etc. I would be prepared to lead seminars and give courses in these areas.

JOHN MILLS READS AT SFU

Writer John Mills reads from his new novel at 12:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 14, in the Theatre. His reading last semester was one of the season's highlights, and he has been called back for a return appearance at the request of many who heard him on that occasion.

The novel from which he will read is now more than two-thirds completed. Its title is Number One, Congress Street. It consists of three "rigmaroles." "Rigmarole" is a term devised by Prof. Mills to describe a unit of eight interlocking sections. Two of these "rigmaroles" have been completed, and he is at work on the third.

His novel, The Down-Trip, from which he read on his last appearance, has been completed and is in the hands of his agent.

John Mills, an assistant professor in the English Department at SFU, was recently awarded a $3,000 Canada Council Arts Fellowship. This will enable him to devote eight months to writing after this semester ends. He plans to spend the summer in Vancouver, and then travel to either Mexico or Europe.

Originally from England, Prof. Mills has spent 16 varied years in Canada, coming to SFU when it opened. He has a B.A. from UBC and an M.A. in English from Stanford.

University Teaching Experience:

At Fourah Bay College there were some 100 students reading Philosophy. Students at Fourah Bay College could take a three year course in Philosophy either as one of their subjects for the B.A. degree in General Studies of Durham University, or as a subsidiary subject to honours in another subject (again for the Durham University degree). The several courses in Philosophy given at that College were year by year rotated among the staff of the Philosophy Department. Accordingly, at the time I was at Fourah Bay College, I taught the following courses:

Logic, Metaphysics and Epistemology to first year students. History of Philosophy and a more advanced course in Metaphysics and Epistemology to second year students. Ethics to third year students.

At Simon Fraser University I have taught Theory of Knowledge (Philosophy 100), Introduction to Logic (Philosophy 102), Moral Philosophy (Philosophy 103), Locke, Berkeley, Hume (Philosophy 433), Background to Contemporary Philosophy (Philosophy 436), Seminar 440 and Seminar 441.

University Administrative Experience:

February 1962 appointed member of the Board of the Faculty of Arts, Fourah Bay College, for a period of two years.

February 1964 re-appointed member of the Board of the Faculty of Arts for a further period of two years.

September-December 1962 Acting Head of the Philosophy Department, Fourah Bay College (the Head of the Department having taken a sabbatical term).

June 1962, 1963, 1964 Examiner in Philosophy (Fourah Bay scripts) for the University of Durham.

May 1964 appointed member of the Fourah Bay College Teaching Staff Association sub-committee on the design of college buildings.

September 1966-April 1967 Chairman of the Department of Philosophy, Simon Fraser University.

September 1967- member of the Faculty of Arts Committee on the Method of Appointment of Heads of Departments, Simon Fraser University.

September 1969 - December 1969 Chairman, Faculty Association, University Affairs Committee.

Research in Progress

A Theory of Managerial Behavior.

This theory attempts to relate managerial behavior and perceptions to manager's beliefs and norms. It is hypothesized that the behavior of managers reflects their perception of reality and this perception is a function of their psychological needs as well as the socialization patterns of western society. It is further hypothesized that the disparity between prescriptive administrative theory and empirical analysis of managerial behavior can be better understood in the light of a behavioral theory of management.

Current Consultant Activity

Lummi Indian Tribe Business Council, Lummi Indian Reservation, Washington.

This activity involves the development of an aquiculture system on the tidal flats of the Lummi Indians. The objective is to create an economically viable sea-run trout production system compatible with the culture and sophistication of the Lummi Community.

The project involves biological research on matters of species, salinity, heat, light, habitat, predation, disease, and selective breeding. This portion of the project is being undertaken by Dr. Wallace G. Heath of the Oceanic Foundation of Honolulu Hawaii. The Oceanic Foundation is also providing the necessary laboratory and project administration.

Diking and hydraulic research will be contracted.

As co-director, I am responsible for developing a viable production system compatible with the existing culture and sophistication of the Lummi Indians. The design of the production system includes a training phase to insure that the level of sophistication of the Indians is adequate for the management of the sea-ranch.

The project is currently funded by a grant from the Oceanic Commission of the State of Washington ($1K) and a grant from the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity ($15K). These initial grants are for the purpose of developing a request for a Technical Assistance Grant from the Economic Development Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce; an interim grant from the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity; and an education and training grant from the Bureau of Indian Affairs of the U.S. Department of the Interior; and small technical research grants from the Atomic Energy Commission, the U.S. Office of Education, and the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

These grants will culminate in a proposal for a construction grant from the Department of Commerce. The research grants will aggregate approximately $225,000 and the construction grant will be approximately 2.5 million dollars.

This, of course, is subject to continued findings of probable system success.

Project success will have significant meaning for areas having similar marine resources such as Boundary Bay and the hundreds of thousands of acres of mud-flats stretching to Cordova Alaska.

I also am a consultant for the Alaskan Federation of Natives (Anchorage, Alaska) but primarily in relation to the Lummi project.
