RATIONALE

A summer session program was offered for the first time during 1971. The course offerings during the 1971 summer session were primarily oriented to the needs of teachers who had left the University after completing their certification programs but before completing their degrees.

The elective course work in the Professional Development Centre is primarily oriented around special topic courses. At the present time, the PDC has developed ten special topic courses but has available only three numbers under which the courses can be offered, namely --

461-4 Trends and Development in Educational Practice

471-4 Curriculum: Theory and Application

481-4 Directed Studies

Many students who enrolled in the summer session program last year and took the courses offered by PDC are expected to enroll again this year. It is not desirable that student records list enrollment several times in courses under the same number and name. There are also administrative and technical problems for staff and students where this is done. For these reasons, we request that Senate authorize three new course numbers for the Professional Development Centre which will be used for the offering of special topics courses during the summer session 1972.

I would like to emphasize that the Faculty of Education is required to submit a revised curriculum to the Academic Planning Committee no later than January 31, 1972. Because our revised curriculum proposals are not yet fully developed, we seek authorization of these three new courses as an interim measure only for the summer session 1972.
