ROWE, W. J. A.

William J.A. (Bill) Rowe, General Manager, B.C. and Pacific Northwest of Air Canada, was born in Manitoba and educated in Calgary, Alberta. It was there that he joined Air Canada (then Trans-Canada Air Lines) as a Passenger Agent. He has held a number of management positions in Calgary, Vancouver and at Corporate Headquarters in Montreal. He returned to Vancouver in 1975 as Director, Sales and Services for Western Canada in the Regional Office and in July, 1978, assumed his present position.

Mr. Rowe received his Master of Business Administration from Simon Fraser University in 1971. He has served as a member in a number of voluntary organizations, the most prominent being as National President of the Canada Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1964-65. He has always been active in the Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce in the cities which he has resided.

Mr. Rowe is married and has three children.

WEST, SUZANNE

My career at Simon Fraser University was as a Communications Major and I graduated in Spring, 1978. During the four years of my studies I resided at Louis Riel House, and both worked and studied in many departments of the University including the Audio Visual Centre and Continuing Studies.

My understanding of the University comes from that of a student, that of an employee, that of an innovator participating in the design and development of programs now in use at the University, that of a graduate trying to find practical application for my skills and knowledge in to-day's world, that of a community resident who has watched the development of Simon Fraser University since the first bit of road was cut through the trees to its current site, and that of a mother with a son who attended the Simon Fraser University Day Care Centre, which his mother helped plan, and who will himself in less than a decade attend Simon Fraser University.

I hope that the perspectives, experiences and skills that I have would be of assistance to the Senate.
