RATIONALE:

LOWER DIVISION REQUIREMENTS

PSYCHOLOGY

The Committee wished to emphasise the value and usefulness of PSYCH 210-3 to students taking PLP and the fact that it is an important prerequisite to Psychology Upper Division Courses.

This changes the minimum numbers of Lower Division Psychology credits from 9 hours to 12 hours.

LINGUISTICS

It has not been possible for several reasons to maintain LING 100 as the introductory course to the PLP programme.

As they stand, the LING. Lower Division requirements involve some hidden prerequisites. LING 100 is not a prerequisite to any Upper Division courses.

With the addition of LING. 222, all lower division LING courses that are prerequisites to Upper Level courses are included.

CONSEQUENCE and CHANGE: Total MIN number of Lower Division LING credit requirements changes from 9 to 12

PHILOSOPHY

Change in credit allocation only as a result of calendar changes introduced by the Philosophy Dept. and approved by Senate.

Involves change of total Lower Division Credit hours in Philosophy from 9 to 10

Effect of changes on TOTAL REQUIRED LOWER DIVISION CREDITS:

MINIMUM: 34

TOTAL: 34 hoursTO: Upper Division Requirements

At least 45 hours of upper division hours structured as follows:

- PSYC 320-3 Cognitive Processes
- 365-3 Psycholinguistics
- 425-5 Language and Thinking (upper division integrative course for the PLP. program)
- LING 403-3 Generative Phonology

- 406-3 Introduction to Semantics
- PHIL 340-3 Philosophical Methods
- 344-3 Philosophy of Language I
- 444-5 Philosophy of Language II

TOTAL: 34 hoursRATIONALE:

The Committee decided that since 1) PHIL 210-4 Elementary Formal Logic is already a requirement for the programme 2) PHIL 340-3 Philosophical Methods is a general upper division required course in Philosophy and 3) PHIL 340-3 is most relevant to our programme it would be better to reduce the amount of Logic courses required in order to enable the introduction of a Methods course which has the simultaneous advantage of handling another 'hidden' prerequisite.
