Studies
Date..... November 12, 1982.....

The following course should be added to the list of courses with partial Middle Eastern content:

HIST 354-3 Imperialism and Political Modernization in Asia. A comparative discussion of the Western intervention in the political and administrative life of selected traditional societies of Asia over the past two centuries, and of the resulting confrontation of the 'old' and the 'new' in the nationalist reactions in the politics of modernization that became the concomitant of independence.

Rationale: This course has over 50% Middle Eastern content and is normally taught by Dr. J. Spagnolo, an Associated Faculty of the AME. Program. It was simply overlooked in the last calendar's revision.
