SIMON FRASER UNIVERSITY

MEMORANDUM

To.....Dr. Evan Alderson.....	From...A. Lebowitz.....
.....Associate Dean of Arts.....	Undergraduate Chair, Dept. of English.....
Subject...Changes to Honors Program.....	Date...February 10, 1986.....

Please put these proposed changes to the English Honors Program before the appropriate committee.

1. Change of requirements:

From: Two required Honors seminars (i.e. English 491, Engl. 492)
To: One required Honors seminar (i.e. Engl. 491)

2. Addition of a new course

English 494-2: Research for the Honors Graduating Essay
Prerequisite: Open only to students who have been accepted into the Honors Program. The student must complete this course before taking English 496 (Honors Graduating Essay)

3. Delete ENGL. 492-2

Rationale:

Four years ago, the English Department instituted a new Honors Program. This replaced a program composed entirely of individual research and writing courses. The new program required students to take two 2 credit honors seminars, (ENGL. 491-2 and ENGL 492-2), as well as English 364-4 (the History and Principles of Literary Criticism) and English 496-4 (Honors Graduating Essay). However, two problems have become apparent:

- 1) since the Department can offer only one Honors seminar per semester, students have little if any choice of seminar topic;
- 2) since there is no research course, students spend much of English 496 on research, and they do not have enough time for the actual writing of the Honors paper.

The alterations indicated above are designed to address these two problems. The requirements that students take English 364 and English 496 would remain unchanged.

If these changes are acceptable to the Faculty and the Senate, the Department of English requests that the new requirements go into effect in 1986-3.

MEMORANDUM

To: SCUS

From: W. R. Heath
Registrar

Subject: ENGL 010-3

Date: May 8, 1986

The attached memorandum from Sheila Roberts, Assistant to the Dean in the Faculty of Arts, was received in late November 1985. I understood from the memo that ENGL 099-2 had replaced ENGL 010-3, that ENGL 010-3 no longer existed as a course, and that the request was editorial in nature to ensure that the Calendar was corrected. It was brought to my attention later by the Calendar Clerk that the course was listed in the Calendar and that there appeared to be no approval for its deletion.

Consequently, I am bringing forward this request from the Faculty of Arts to delete the course ENGL 010-3 for the reasons as set out in the memorandum from Sheila Roberts.

The Department of English has asked that all references to ENGL 010-3 Writing, be removed from the calendar. ENGL 099-2 University Writing, replaced ENGL 010-3 Writing, and the latter course was retained for a limited time in the DISC mode until the DISC version of ENGL 099-2 was completed and available to be offered. This is now the case, and the Dean of Arts Office supports the Department's request.
