CURRICULUM REVISIONS

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

PAGE 330 BUEC 397
Change of Prerequisites

From: ECON 200; 60 credit hours

To: ECON 200 and 205; 60 credit hours

Rationale:

With the exception of BUEC 397, the prerequisites for our three and four hundred level courses are ECON 200 (Microeconomics) and ECON 205 (Macroeconomics).

The department believes the BUEC 397 prerequisite to be anomalous, and that its prerequisites should be ECON 200 and ECON 205.

MEMORANDUM

To.....Sheila Roberts, Secretary.....
.....Faculty of Arts Curriculum Committee.....
Subject.....Change of Prerequisites - BUEC 397.....

From...Bob Rogow Robert Rogow, Associate Dean.....
.....Faculty of Business Administration.....
Date.....March 25, 1986.....

This is in response to your March 6th memo to me, "Change of Prerequisite - BUEC 397".

The Faculty of Business Administration's Undergraduate Curriculum Committee at its meeting on March 24th took the following action:

It agreed with the prerequisite change in BUEC 397, "Government and Business", proposed by the Economics Department, namely the change from "Economics 200; 60 hours" to "Economics 200 and 205; 60 hours". It therefore will join with the Faculty of Arts Curriculum Committee in forwarding that change to Senate.

Its rationale for the decision was:

- (a) agreement with Economics' apparent general belief that third and fourth year courses with significant Economics content should require introductory macroeconomics in addition to introductory microeconomics as a prerequisite.
- (b) a belief that some prior exposure to macroeconomics would be useful to students taking this particular course.
