MEMORANDUM

To: Tom Perry, FACC Chair

Date: May 30, 1997

Topic: Psychology Curriculum Changes

Following approval at the department meeting of May 8, 1997, we recommend the following addition to the regulations governing admission to the Psychology Honours Program (see p. 147 of the 97/98 Calendar):

- the department expects to give clear admission to eligible applicants whose SFU GPA is at least 3.33. Applications from students with a lower CGPA will be held until spring semester grades are known, and will then be considered on an individual basis.

Rationale

The Psychology Department has always admitted to its Honors Program all eligible applicants. In the last two years this has produced enrolments of about 30 students in the core honors project courses (PSYC 490/499), which is the maximum that can be accommodated in the preferred course format of a single-section seminar. We are concerned that a rise in the number of eligible applicants may force a change in this format, and we have been considering ways in which we might limit enrolment in the Honors Program. GPA is the most rational basis for enrolment limitation, but we are reluctant simply to raise the minimum level from 3.00. CGPA is a crude measure, and the number of students is small enough to allow a more careful, individual assessment.

We therefore propose to use a CGPA level of 3.33 to determine whether an applicant to the Honors Program is given clear admission soon after the mid-March deadline, or is placed in a hold category. For the latter group, we will wait until their spring semester grades are known, and examine each applicant's credentials on an individual basis. The criterion will be success in graduate school, since preparation for graduate work is the primary focus of the Honors Program.

PROPOSED JOINT MAJOR BETWEEN SOCIOLOGY/ANTHROPOLOGY AND CRIMINOLOGY

Sociology/Anthropology and Criminology have some common methods and theoretical concerns; for example, the relation between such variables as class, gender, ethnicity, and crime; the social construction of deviance; the law as a social phenomenon; the general social, political, and economic frameworks of society that condition the nature and perception of social problems. This joint major is recommended for students who share these concerns.

Admission to these joint major programs is contingent upon the enrollment limitation requirements of the School of Criminology. Application for admission must follow the general procedures established by the School.

(Note: Sociology/Anthropology offers degrees in Sociology OR Anthropology, as well as a joint degree in Sociology AND Anthropology. Students who are interested in pursuing a joint program in Sociology/Anthropology and Criminology should contact the Advisors in both S/A and Criminology.)

PROPOSED JOINT MAJOR BETWEEN THE SCHOOL OF COMMUNICATION and THE DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY & ANTHROPOLOGY

Sociology/Anthropology and Communications overlap in many of their concerns: the nature, production, commodification, and politics of culture; the relation between communicative processes and social identity, class, gender, etc. The S&A/Communications joint major is recommended for students who share these common interests

Lower Division Communication Requirements

A minimum of 18 lower division credit hours (6 courses) in Communication, including:

CMNS 110 and CMNS 130
ONE of CMNS 260 or CMNS 261

plus three additional lower levels courses in Communication.

Lower Division Sociology Requirements

SA 101
SA 150
SA 250
SA 255
STAT 203 or CMNS 260

Lower Division Anthropology

SA 101
SA 150
SA 255
ONE of SA 201 or 245
STAT 203 or CMNS 260

(please note that SA 255 - Introduction to Social Research - fulfills the requirement for Communication majors to take a course in basic social science methods).

Upper Division Communication Requirements

A minimum of 24 upper level credit hours in Communication, including"

ONE of CMNS 362 or CMNS 363

(please note that Directed Study and Field Placement courses may not be used to meet this requirement)

Upper Division Sociology Requirements

A minimum of 20 upper division credit hours in Sociology or S/A courses (5 courses), which must include the following:

SA 350

ONE of SA 355 or SA 356

Upper Division Anthropology Requirements

A minimum of 20 upper division credit hours in Anthropology or S/A courses (5 courses), which must include the following:

SA 301

SA 356

(SA 401 & SA 402 highly recommended)

(The Department of Sociology & Anthropology offers separate majors in Sociology or Anthropology, and also a joint major in Sociology AND Anthropology. Those students who wish to take the Communication/S&A option must fulfill the lower and upper division requirements for BOTH Sociology and Anthropology as listed above).

STUDENTS MUST ALSO COMPLETE THE GENERAL FACULTY REQUIREMENTS OF THE FACULTY OF APPLIED SCIENCES OR THE FACULTY OF ARTS, DEPENDING ON THE FACULTY IN WHICH THE STUDENT IS SEEKING A DEGREE.
