Report to Senate from the Committee to Review University Admission

An applicant for admission, student or former student of Simon Fraser University, graduate or undergraduate, who feels aggrieved by the decision to apply a particular admission, readmission or transfer credit policy in his or her specific case when special circumstances are present may have their case reviewed by the Committee to Review University Admissions (CRUA). An individual who wishes to appeal must submit the appeal in writing, specifying the special circumstances to be considered. All appellants have the option of appearing for an in-person hearing at a CRUA meeting or of having a representative appear on their behalf. In the 1998-99 year CRUA held seven meetings: one to review admission to the Summer 1998 semester; three meetings for the Fall 1998 semester; and three for the Spring 1999 semester.

CRUA reviewed a total of 80 appeals during 1998-99; eight for Summer 1998, forty-seven for Fall 1998, and twenty-five for Spring 1999. A total of sixty-six students chose to appear in person or have a representative appear on their behalf. Of all the appeals heard twenty-five were sustained and fifty-five were denied. On occasion CRUA may deny a student but give conditions under which the student may be admitted to a future semester. All numbers reported in the charts below include only those students who were sustained at the CRUA meetings and do not include students admitted to a future semester on the basis of criteria set by CRUA.

The Committee's terms of reference were changed in May 1998 to include consideration of admission appeals from graduate students as well as undergraduate students. At this time the Committee has not received any appeals from graduate students.

Attached are two charts showing the outcomes of CRUA cases. The first chart shows the number of appeals received and decisions made each semester since the Summer of 1997. The second chart reports the registration status as of the Summer 1999 semester of all students CRUA has admitted since January 1996.
