Attn: FASS, SGSC
Re: GSWS Program Change (M.A)

Dear Dr. Pulkingham:

Please accept the following document regarding a change to the M.A. program in Gender, Sexuality and Women's Studies. This change was approved at the GSWS Annual Advance on Wednesday 1 May, 2013.

The proposed program change is as follows:
-a reduction of the number of M.A. program options from three to two
-elimination of the extended essay M.A. program option

This change was recommended several years ago by our external reviewers. This change was recommended and approved because the extended essay option proved to be a more onerous project than the thesis. These changes will simplify the program so that students have a choice of either a course intensive option or a thesis option. No students were accepted under the extended essay option in 2012-2013 or 2013-2014, and no current students are registered under this option, so the change reflects existing practice and will have no impact on currently registered students.

We would appreciate if you could place these changes on the agenda of the next FASSGSC meeting.

Sincerely,

Lara Campbell

Changes to the Calendar Language for Gender, Sexuality and Women's Studies

Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies

From:
MASTER OF ARTS
This master of arts (MA) program offers interdisciplinary study and research leading to a master's degree. The program provides a strong academic approach, with core courses on feminist theory and methodology and a blend of advanced studies in specific fields, as well as directed readings for more individualized study. Students develop and demonstrate intellectual and analytical skills, in accordance with the particular criteria of the level of study, and in consultation with their senior supervisor and supervisory committee.

Admission Requirements
Applicants must satisfy the gender, sexuality, and women's studies graduate program committee that they are prepared academically to undertake graduate work. In addition to University requirements, (see graduate general regulations), the program requires a substantial essay which is scholarly in format and approach. The submitted paper may be an undergraduate essay previously prepared, or one specially written for this purpose.

a statement of gender, sexuality, and women's studies interests and goals; normally students will be expected to present a definite proposal for their research.

a short description of previous relevant course work and/or employment. Previous work should include both specialized disciplinary training and broader interdisciplinary work concerned with women.

The specific requirements for application are provided at www.sfu.ca/gsws/.

A student will be admitted into a specific option (thesis~~, two extended essays~~ or course intensive) and so should apply to the options preferred.

Qualified students will be accepted into the MA thesis option only if a suitable senior supervisor is willing to supervise the student. Senior supervisors will be selected from joint gender, sexuality, and women's studies appointees and continuing faculty on the co-ordinating committee of the department including associate members.

A student can change from one option to another only with the approval of the graduate program committee. A student can transfer to the thesis option only if there is a suitable supervisor available.

A student with incomplete academic preparation for the MA program may be required to complete up to 12 units of additional work in either the Department of Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies or another relevant program.

The graduate program committee administers admissions and all matters pertaining to individual students, and consists of all continuing faculty members and/or associate faculty members.

Upon admission, the student will be assigned a two member advisory committee which has the responsibility for ensuring that the student fulfils all degree requirements. For further information concerning requirements, consult the department's graduate secretary or graduate chair.

This is to request the reinstatement of graduate course HIST 810 - Themes in European History. It was last offered as a Directed Reading in both the Fall (1127) and Spring (1131) terms of the 2012-2013 Academic Year.

Due to the shrinking size of our Faculty, plus the size and diversity of our graduate program cohorts, we are unable to schedule this important course as a seminar but it was, and still is, a vital part of our program.

In fact, the loss of HIST 810's availability became evident this term when we were unable to enroll one of our graduates into the course as a DR. This required the student's supervisor having to re-think how to provide the material through another course.

MEMORANDUM

ATTENTION Jane Pulkingham, Chair, FASSGSC

FROM Alec Dawson, Director, School for International Studies & Coordinator, Latin American Studies

RE: Suspension of admission into Stream 3: Latin American Studies

DATE September 5, 2013

The School for International Studies is formally requesting the suspension of admission into Stream 3: Latin American Studies in the MA in International Studies program effective Fall 2014

Rationale: The proposed suspension is in response to the creation of regional concentration in LAS.

Alec Dawson

1. Proposed program change

A recent review of the MA in International Studies (MAIS) program by its faculty in response to faculty members' regional specializations and how the program has functioned to date has resulted in the faculty proposing a number of changes:

a) The creation of three regional concentrations within the program instead of one: Latin American Studies (LAS), Middle Eastern Studies (MES) and Southeastern European Studies (SEES).
b) The reorganization of the Program into two Streams (Governance and Conflict, and International Development), and three Concentrations (see above). Students in the program will be required to chose one of two streams, and will be given the option to also graduate with a Concentration in one of the three regions (this will not be mandatory). In order to get credit for having completed a Concentration, students will complete two courses in the Concentration (see below), and write their thesis or Professional Paper on a topic related to that Concentration. The Concentrations will be listed on their transcripts.
c) Deletion of Stream 3: Latin American Studies.

2. How the change will affect the existing program

The proposed changes will not impact existing students or teaching resources within the program.

3. Justification for the change

The rationale for the proposed changes are as follows:

a) To accommodate the request by colleagues in Hellenic Studies to add SEES to the MAIS program.
b) To accommodate requests by faculty members in the School to add regional concentrations to the MAIS program.
c) To streamline the MA program into two available streams only: (1) International Development and (2) Governance and Conflict.
d) To make the relationship between the area studies and the theoretical aspects of the MAIS consistent.
e) To create a model that will allow us to add further area studies concentrations in a consistent manner in the future.

4. Calendar Language

FROM:

International Studies

Master of Arts

This full-time 12 month program, leading to a Master of Arts (MA) in International Studies, consists of seven courses that are completed over three consecutive terms. The duration of the program may be extended with the approval of the senior supervisor and graduate chair/director. Courses will be dependent upon which ~~course~~ stream a student is completing. These are

Stream 1 - International Development
Stream 2 - Governance and Conflict
~~Stream 3 - Latin American Studies~~

In addition, students can earn a regional concentration by completing two courses and writing their thesis (IS 898) or extended essay (IS 880) on their region of expertise. Approved courses for each regional concentration can be found below.

The available concentrations are

Latin American Studies
Middle Eastern Studies
Southeastern European Studies

Admission Requirements

Normally, to be considered for admission, applicants must have a bachelor's degree with a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.5 from a recognized university, preferably in an arts or social sciences discipline. In addition, the School also requires a statement of research interest. ~~Applicants seeking entry into the Latin American Studies stream must provide proof of reading and speaking competence in Spanish or Portuguese. At the discretion of the graduate program committee, proof of competence in another language spoken in Latin America and the Caribbean may be accepted.~~ Those admitted with other credentials or those with arts degrees who in the judgment of the Graduate Chair are without adequate foundation in the social sciences may be required to make up any deficiency without receiving graduate credit for those courses. Students are admitted for commencement of studies in the fall semester only.

Concurrent Bachelor's-Masters Program*

Admission Requirements

The minimum requirements for this concurrent degree program is as per Graduate General Regulation 1.3.8a. In addition, the School also requires a statement of research interest. Students may be admitted for commencement of studies in the fall and spring terms. Please note that this program is only available to current Simon Fraser University declared International Studies Major or Honours undergraduate students.

Application Requirements

Please consult the School for International Studies website. Applicants are encouraged to apply as soon as they have completed 90 units for their bachelor's requirements.

* Students will be awarded a Bachelor of Arts (with major/honours) and will be offered conditional admission into the Master of Arts in International Studies commencing in the fall term. Students may complete a portion of graduate units towards their bachelor's and master's requirements concurrently.

Application Requirements

Please consult the School for International Studies website.

Program Requirements

1. Extended Essays Track

Students complete a minimum of 30 units, including at least 24 units of coursework and two extended essays (6 units). Each extended essay should be approximately 8,000 words. The options are writing a policy briefing (or policy briefings), a review essay (or review essays), or some other type of writing focused on synthesis and analysis, rather than original research.

Stream 1 International Development

IS 800 - Problems of International Policy and Practice (4)
IS 801 - Institutions, Policies and Development (4)

TO:

International Studies

Master of Arts

This full-time 12 month program, leading to a Master of Arts (MA) in International Studies, consists of seven courses that are completed over three consecutive terms. The duration of the program may be extended with the approval of the senior supervisor and graduate chair/director. Courses will be dependent upon which stream a student is completing. These are

Stream 1 - International Development
Stream 2 - Governance and Conflict

In addition, students can earn a regional concentration by completing two courses and writing their thesis (IS 898) or extended essay (IS 880) on their region of expertise. Approved courses for each regional concentration can be found below.

The available concentrations are

Latin American Studies
Middle Eastern Studies
Southeastern European Studies

Admission Requirements

Normally, to be considered for admission, applicants must have a bachelor's degree with a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.5 from a recognized university, preferably in an arts or social sciences discipline. In addition, the School also requires a statement of research interest. Those admitted with other credentials or those with arts degrees who in the judgment of the Graduate Chair are without adequate foundation in the social sciences may be required to make up any deficiency without receiving graduate credit for those courses. Students are admitted for commencement of studies in the fall semester only.

Concurrent Bachelor's-Masters Program*

Admission Requirements

The minimum requirements for this concurrent degree program is as per Graduate General Regulation 1.3.8a. In addition, the School also requires a statement of research interest. Students may be admitted for commencement of studies in the fall and spring terms. Please note that this program is only available to current Simon Fraser University declared International Studies Major or Honours undergraduate students.

Application Requirements

Please consult the School for International Studies website. Applicants are encouraged to apply as soon as they have completed 90 units for their bachelor's requirements.

* Students will be awarded a Bachelor of Arts (with major/honours) and will be offered conditional admission into the Master of Arts in International Studies commencing in the fall term. Students may complete a portion of graduate units towards their bachelor's and master's requirements concurrently.

Application Requirements

Please consult the School for International Studies website.

Program Requirements

1. Extended Essays Track

Students complete a minimum of 30 units, including at least 24 units of coursework and two extended essays (6 units). Each extended essay should be approximately 8,000 words. The options are writing a policy briefing (or policy briefings), a review essay (or review essays), or some other type of writing focused on synthesis and analysis, rather than original research.

Stream 1 International Development

IS 800 - Problems of International Policy and Practice (4)
IS 801 - Institutions, Policies and Development (4)
IS 802 - Political Economy of Development (4)
IS 830 - Analytic Approaches for International Studies (4)

Course: IS 8454 State Building and State Failures in the Balkans: From Greece to Yugoslavia and Back Again | Instructor: Evdoxios Doxiadis | Prerequisites: N/A

Description: This course will examine state formation in the Balkans in the 19th century, the failures of the 20th century (dictatorships, coups, revolutions, civil wars etc.), the new efforts of state formation in the 20th century (for example the Yugoslav model of both pre-WWII and Tito's Yugoslavia or the attempts to establish Republics in Greece in the 1920's and post 1974, and the Bulgarian experiment with Agrarianism in the 1920s), and the new failures (the Yugoslav Wars or the current Greek debt crisis).

Learning outcomes:
At the end of this course, students will be able to:
1) gain a deep understanding of modern attempts at state building through an exploration of numerous case studies in the Balkans.
2) analyze current and past conflicts and develop an understanding of the impact of international involvement in domestic politics.
3) assess the impact of local political developments upon the world stage, critique attempts at producing national or multi-ethnic state entities, and then be able to interpret the successes of said states.

Course: IS 865-4 Asymmetrical, Conventional and Political Conflicts, 1870-2010
Instructor: Andre Gerolymatos | Prerequisites: N/A

Description: War, tragically, has been an integral part of society and the catalyst for major upheavals in empires and states. From antiquity states have concentrated a great deal of their energies and wealth in defensive or offensive conflicts. At the same time, war in ancient societies was glorified and imbued with concepts of honor, manliness and duty to family and state. Until the mass killing and casualties of the First World War, armed conflict was filtered through notions of adventure and opportunities for displaying bravery and aggrandizement of plunder and new territories. These concepts of war survived because, with notable exceptions, until the First World War and impact of technology, mass armies rendered such ideas delusionary. The Second World War brought about killing on an industrial scale, while the side affects of this global conflict such as the Cold War created the conditions for organized terrorism and asymmetrical warfare in Europe the Middle East and South Asia.

Learning outcomes:
At the end of this course, students will be able to:

1. Analyze how war has impacted the evolution of contemporary society in Europe, North American and the Middle East.
2. Describe the different concepts and connotations that war carries.
3. Compose different types of writings including a book review and a research prospectus and a research paper.

Topics will include: the industrialization of society for war, the transition of professional armies to mass armies as the reverse phenomenon in the 21st century; the role of intelligence and code-breaking; "black Ops"; the breakdown of the "rules of War" and the transition to total war as experienced from 1939-1945; and terrorism.

Required & Recommended Texts:
Timothy Snyder, Bloodlands: Europe Between Hitler and Stalin (New York 2010)
Mathew Carr, the Infernal machine: A History of Terrorism, from the Assassination of Tsar Alexander II to al-Qaeda (New york 2007)
Misha Glenny, The Balkans: Nationalism, War and the Great Powers, 1804-1999 (London 2000)

Dear Ellen,

I have completed the Library reports for the following proposed courses:

IS845 / HS845 : State Building and State Failures in the Balkans: From Greece to Yugoslavia
IS855 / HS855 : Rome, Persia, and the Rise of Islam: International Relations in the Ancient Mediterranean
IS865 / HS865 : International Relations: Conventional, Political and Asymmetrical Conflicts, 1870-2010

and have determined that no additional library resources will be required to support them. Three titles from the reading lists that are currently not in the library collection will be purchased out of existing budget allocations for International Studies and History. I have added the courses to the appropriate list on the Library Course Assessments page at http://www.lib.sfu.ca/collections/course-assessments , and this will be adequate proof of library sign-off.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Best regards,
Ivana

FROM Morten Jerven, Graduate Program Chair, School for International Studies

SUBJECT Curriculum and Course Changes

DATE September 5, 2013

At its meeting of March 25, 2013, the School for International Studies approved the attached curriculum and course changes:

1) Proposed program changes to add regional concentrations and to delete the Latin American Studies stream
2) Suspension of admission into Stream 3: Latin American Studies in the MA in International Studies program effective Fall 2014
3) Graduate course minor changes: IS 802-4, IS 806-4, IS 808-4, IS 809-4, IS 816-4, IS 840-4, IS 815-4, IS 835-4
   Rationale: to remove outdated prerequisites (streams A and B no longer exist) and to accurately reflect the title of IS 809
4) New graduate course proposal: IS 804-4, IS 820-4, IS 845-4, IS 865-4

Would you please place this proposal on the agenda of the next meeting of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Graduate Studies Curriculum Committee.

RE: Curricular Revisions: Latin American Studies Program

DATE: September 26, 2013

At its meeting of September 26, 2013, the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Graduate Studies Curriculum Committee approved the curricular revisions, as submitted by the Latin American Studies Program (FASSGSC 13-6):

- Calendar changes to the LAS Graduate Certificate Program
- Deletion of LAS 800-4 Approaches to Research in Latin American Studies
- Deletion of LAS 815-4 Theories of Latin American Development
- Deletion of LAS 835-4 Social and Political Change in Latin America

Would you please place these items on the agenda of the next SGSC meeting.

Subject: LAS Graduate Curriculum Changes

Date: June 19, 2013

At its meeting of June 18, 2012, the Latin American Studies Program Committee approved:

1) the attached calendar changes to the Latin American Studies Graduate Certificate Program.
2) the following course deletions:
    a. LAS 800-4 Approaches to Research in Latin American Studies
    b. LAS 815-4 Theories of Latin American Development
    c. LAS 835-4 Social and Political Change in Latin America

    RATIONALE: These three courses have been integrated into IS 805, IS 815 and IS 835 in which the course titles and content remain the same. Wade Parkhouse advised LAS to delete the LAS courses to avoid confusion.

Would you please place this proposal on the agenda of the next meeting of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Curriculum Committee?

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE

This program may be of interest to those seeking certification of Latin American expertise. For information, and to be admitted, students should contact the Latin American Studies program director.

This graduate certificate program is exclusively - and only - completed during enrolment in a master's or doctoral program. Therefore, graduate certificate courses may be applied toward a master's or doctoral program. Students are not permitted to complete this graduate certificate program on its' own. Courses used to satisfy the requirements of a diploma program cannot also be used to satisfy the requirements of this graduate certificate program.

Program Requirements

Students complete, with a minimum B grade, ~~both~~ all of

~~LAS~~ IS 815 - Theories of Latin American Development (4)

~~LAS~~ IS 835 - Social and Political Change in Latin America (4)

a graduate research methods course

~~and either~~

~~LAS 800 - Approaches to Research in Latin American Studies (4)~~

~~or~~

~~and~~ one additional Latin America related course

Students are also required to demonstrate Spanish or Portuguese language proficiency by taking a faculty administered exam, or by obtaining a B grade in an upper division Spanish or Portuguese language course.

Courses used to fulfil the requirements cannot be graded as satisfactory/unsatisfactory but instead must culminate in a letter grade.

'Students enrolled in the MAIS Program who qualify for the Concentration in Latin America may not receive the Certificate in LAS.

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE

This program may be of interest to those seeking certification of Latin American expertise. For information, and to be admitted, students should contact the Latin American Studies program director.

This graduate certificate program is exclusively - and only - completed during enrolment in a master's or doctoral program. Therefore, graduate certificate courses may be applied toward a master's or doctoral program. Students are not permitted to complete this graduate certificate program on its' own. Courses used to satisfy the requirements of a diploma program cannot also be used to satisfy the requirements of this graduate certificate program.

Program Requirements
Students complete, with a minimum B grade, all of
IS 815 - Theories of Latin American Development (4)
IS 835 - Social and Political Change in Latin America (4)
a graduate research methods course
one additional Latin America related course

Students are also required to demonstrate Spanish or Portuguese language proficiency by taking a faculty administered exam, or by obtaining a B grade in an upper division Spanish or Portuguese language course.

Courses used to fulfil the requirements cannot be graded as satisfactory/unsatisfactory but instead must culminate in a letter grade.

Students enrolled in the MAIS Program who qualify for the Concentration in Latin America may not receive the Certificate in LAS.

RE : New Graduate Course Proposal SA 815 and SA 835

DATE : July 16th, 2013 TIME :

Dear Associate Dean Dr Paul Budra,

The Sociology and Anthropology Graduate Program is requesting creation of two new graduate courses: SA 815 and SA 835. Both these courses are to be cross-listed with pre-existing International Studies courses.

As Sociology and Anthropology faculty member Gerardo Otero general teaches Latin American courses through the School for International Studies, we would like to cross-list these courses with IS.

The calendar amendments reflect the addition of these courses as elective options for both the Masters and PhD programs. The total credit requirement has been changed to a minimum credit requirement.

Please find the new graduate course proposal forms and calendar amendments attached.

Sincerely,

Dr. Cindy Patton
Graduate Program Co-Chair

RE : Calendar Language Change
DATE : February 15, 2013	TIME

To Whom It May Concern:

The School for International Studies and the Department of Sociology and Anthropology have agreed to cross-list the following two courses, IS 815-4 and IS 835-4 with SA:

IS 815-4 Theories of Latin American Development

A synthetic introduction to historical and contemporary theories of development in Latin America. Topics include political economy of development, sociological theories of development, an introduction to neoliberalism, and the contemporary experience of globalization and development in Latin America. This course is identical to LAS 815 and so students may not receive credit for both courses

IS 835-4 Social and Political Change in Latin America

A general overview of social and political change in Latin America, including revolutions, independence, transition to democracy, and contemporary social movements. Theoretical approaches may include social-movement theory, democratic theory, etc. This course is identical to LAS 835 and students may not receive credit for both courses

Please ensure that the academic calendar cross-lists these courses as IS/SA 815-4 and IS/SA 835-4.

SA/[redacted]/IS 815-4 Theories of Latin American Development

INSTRUCTOR: Gerardo Otero, Chris Gibson

PREREQUISITE: None. This course is identical to LAS815/SA815 and students may not receive credit for both courses.

DESCRIPTION: This course is designed introduce students to contemporary Latin American (LA) economic development issues from an interdisciplinary perspective. LA is a beguiling region- rich in resources and with highly capable people, it has suffered from low and volatile growth and is one of the worst regions in terms of equity. The course guides students through in depth analyses of the sources and possible solutions to such problems. The course is designed to be accessible to students who do not have a background in economics. Students with limited background in LA can access the course with some additional background reading. Students will be intensively guided through a course project.

REQUIRED READINGS:

Apart from the texts noted below, this course relies heavily on journal articles and individual chapters from monographs, all of which are detailed in the long form of the course syllabus

Jorge Castaneda, Utopia Unarmed, NY: Knopf, 1993.

APPROVAL SIGNATURES

When a department proposes a new course it must first be sent to the chairs of each faculty graduate program committee where there might be an overlap in course content. The chairs will indicate that overlap concerns have been dealt with by signing the appropriate space or via a separate memo or e-mail (attached to this form).

The new course proposal must also be sent to the Library for a report on library resources.

Once overlap concerns have been dealt with, signatures indicate approval by the department, home faculty and Senate Graduate Studies Committee.

Other Faculties
The signature(s) below indicate that the Dean(s) or designate of other Faculties affected by the proposed new course support(s) the approval of the new course.
