MEMORANDUM

ATTENTION SCUS

FROM Andrew Gemino, Associate Dean, Undergraduate Programs, Beedie School of Business

RE: Changes to Beedie's Admission Requirements for Fall 2017 for Post-Secondary Transfer Students

DATE August 14, 2015

The Beedie School of Business at Simon Fraser University would like to expand its use of the broad based admissions process to all categories of admission. All students applying to the Beedie School for Fall 2017 onward will be required to submit a supplemental application form.

The inclusion of a supplemental form affords the Beedie School of Business the ability to assess a student more holistically across all admission routes. While the supplemental application "may" include the items noted in the list of supplemental form components, it is not necessary that all or any of these application items be used within each admission category. This list of items should be viewed as optional rather than mandatory. The admission language changes proposed will provide the Beedie School with the tools to adjust admission practices to recruit and attract the best students, but it does not commit or compel the Beedie School to using any or all of these applications tools for a given pathway.

To provide a transition period for applicants, the Beedie School will pilot the use of broad based admissions for transfer students applying for Fall 2016. Transfer students (excluding FIC) who meet the current grade point average (GPA) required for admission will be admitted directly to the school. Transfer students who do not meet the current GPA required for admission but who have a minimum GPA of 2.80 will have the option to submit a supplemental application. Beedie's broad based evaluation committee will competitively select these students for admission.

Signed:
