Helps students develop professional writing- and speaking-based communication strategies they can confidently adapt to a wide range of business situations. The course aims to raise their communication performance to a professionally acceptable level, rather than to memorize or theorize about communication knowledge: this is a "learn-by-doing" course. Students will improve their ability to conceptualize, analyze/evaluate, synthesize, and apply information to guide their thinking and finished products across various business contexts. As teamwork is a fundamental skill valued by employers, students will participate in a major team project to learn about and apply best practices for collaboration with respect to professional business communication. The primary means of instruction and learning is guided practice in both writing and presenting in response to realistic business contexts. Instruction and assessment focus on both the process of creating professional, finished products, as well as the quality of those products.

Prerequisite: This course is open to students admitted prior to Fall 2014 to the business administration major, honours, or second degree program and who have 45 units, OR to students admitted Fall 2014 - Summer 2017 to the business administration major, honours, or second degree program and who have 45 units and BUS 130 or (BUS 201 or BUS 202) or BUS 301, with a minimum grade of C-, OR to student admitted Fall 2017 - ~~onwards~~ Summer 2022 to the business administration major, honours, or second degree program and who have 45 units and BUS 130 or (BUS 201 or BUS 202) or BUS 301, with a minimum grade of C- and BUS 217W with a minimum grade of C-, OR to students admitted Fall 2022 onwards to the business administration major, honours, or second degree program, and who have 45 units; BUS 217W and (BUS 201 or BUS 202), both with a minimum grade of C-; and corequisite: BUS 300, OR to business administration joint major or joint honours students with BUS 217W with a minimum grade of C- and 45 units, OR to business and economics joint major students with ECON 220W with a minimum grade of C- and 45 units, OR to mechatronic systems engineering and business administration double degree students with 45 units, OR to management systems science or actuarial science majors with 45 units OR to data science major with BUS 217W with a minimum grade of C- and 45 units. The Beedie School of Business has undergone a program review to bring the BBA in alignment with the calling. This final professional development course provides students the opportunity to look back on how they have grown and developed their own understanding of the program learning goals and how that their transformation as a student impacts and directs their transition from Beedie onto their chosen career path. Students will present on their experience to their peers who are just beginning to explore all the different concentrations within the program and incorporate that peer insight as part of their decision-making process. The presentation is an opportunity for students to begin to articulate the transferable skills and experiences acquired while completing the BBA, to a variety of different work environments and industries.

From:

CA 324 ~~New Dance Composition (3)~~

~~Students will be introduced to traditional choreographic structures and explore new directions in composition. Emphasis will be on the creation and analysis of work generated by extending the parameters of source, style and form in contemporary dance.~~ Prerequisite: CA (or FPA) 124, 228W, 285. Students with credit for FPA 324 may not take this course for further credit. Quantitative.

To:

324- Approaches to Composition (3)

Focused on learning different movement based compositional methods used to make new work. Students will apply new compositional ideas, expanding and setting material in space and working with different approaches of music, light and sound. Students will work with peers from production and design and other areas to create specific projects. Prerequisite: CA (or FPA) 124, 228W, 285. Students with credit for FPA 324 may not take this course for further credit. Quantitative.

From:

~~Contemporary Dance VIII: Choreography Lab (4)~~

~~Continues and expands the work undertaken in CA (or FPA) 324. This process-oriented workshop will focus on choreographic strategies and devices used to develop dance works. Specific studies in movement generation, improvisation, partnering, spatial design and compositional structures will be explored. Prerequisite: CA (or FPA) 124 and 285. May repeat twice for credit.~~

To

Choreographic Lab(4)

Continues and expands on strategies undertaken in CA (or FPA) 324. Focused on guest artist or faculty research-this course is a process-oriented laboratory for artistic exploration. Students will engage in artistic research led by the guest or faculty artist and culminate in a showing at the end of the term. Prerequisite: CA (or FPA) 124, and 285, 324 and (326 or 327). Repeatable two times for credit.

Fall 2022

RATIONALE (must be included)

The title and description edit is designed to sequence with the upper division courses in composition. We also want to distinguish this class that focuses on choreography from the studio classes focused on movement form training. The course should be repeatable as the instructors and guest artists will always change.

From:

CA 325: ~~Special Projects in Dance Composition (3)~~

~~A specific topic or set of ideas will form the basis for choreographic exploration. Students will create one or more works and participate in research and critical analysis, depending on the particular topic in a given term. May be repeated twice for credit if the topic changes.~~

~~Prerequisite: 40 units in CA (or FPA) courses. Students with credit for FPA 325 may not take this course for further credit.~~

To:

CA 424 Making/Artistic Research (3)

Students are encouraged to focus their efforts on an individual practice and to develop new work mentored by faculty and guest artists. The research from this course will be carried over to the spring semester senior projects in CA 425. Part of the class will focus on documentation and approaches to building personal profiles. This course can be repeated once for credit.

Prerequisite: CA 324.

EFFECTIVE TERM AND YEAR FOR CHANGES

Fall, Spring, Summer and year (please enter in textbox)

Fall 2022

RATIONALE (must be included)

CA 424 will now be part of a series of courses leading to senior projects in dance. The original design for 325 was meant to be open to a wide range of approaches to research depending on faculty. The shift in title and description will focus the course on senior level dance majors preparing for senior projects in CA 425. The prerequisite change also follows the new design of the BFA in dance for a sequential approach to dance making.

COURSE SUBJECT	CA	NUMBER	425	TITLE	Intensive Studies in Performance (5)

From:

CA 425 Intensive Studies in Performance (5)

Advanced performance studies in intensive specialized workshops and/or participation in choreographic projects culminating in public performance. Course content may include interdisciplinary collaborations and a variety of performance styles and techniques. May repeat for credit. Prerequisite: CA (or FPA) 285 and CA (or FPA) 326 or 327 with prior approval by application. Students must also be concurrently enrolled in a dance technique course at the appropriate level. These courses include CA 221, 321, 323, and 421.

To

CA 425 Intensive Studies in Performance: Senior Projects (4)

Senior students continue the movement based research initiated in CA 424. An extended final project will be developed, mentored by faculty and guest artists, culminating in a showing or presentation at the end of the semester. Students will have the option of working as a choreographer or performer, and or collaborating with students from other disciplines. Prerequisite: CA 324, 424.

Fall 2022

RATIONALE (must be included)

CA 425, a course designed for performance, will maintain this focus with an emphasis on student led work. The work will be mentored by faculty and guest artists and culminate in a showing at the end of the term. The change in credit hours reflects the contact hours in the studio over a term. Changes to prerequisites reflect the course progression from third to fourth year courses in composition and performance.

PLAN 406 - ~~Rural~~ Community Planning and Development (4)

~~Examines the processes and practices of planning in the rural setting. Topics may include the historical development of rural planning in Canada, the principles and practices of rural development and their relevance to planning, planning in resource regions, and planning for rural resilience. For each topic the course will identify the challenges and opportunities associated with adding a rural lens to planning practice.~~

Examines the processes and practices of considering land in municipal and regional planning settings. Topics may include the historical development of land use and spatial planning at the local level in Canada, the evolving principles and practices of land development, valuation, sustainability, resilience, and climate planning Through alternative approaches to land via economic, policy, legal, socio-cultural and socio-environmental lenses, the course equips students to become municipal land use planners.

Prerequisite: PLAN 100 or PLAN 200; and 60 units.

RATIONALE (must be included)

The Professional Standards Board (PSB), the body responsible for managing planning programs' accreditation for the Canadian Institute of Planners, recommended we include a course of urban planning. Rather than have one course on rural planning and another course on urban planning, we are re-designing 406 to cover both rural and urban by focusing on municipal planning. The proposed changes aim to fulfill the PSB's recommendation and thereby strengthen the planning programs prospect for full accreditation in the near future.

Changing the content of REM 406 this way also allows us to provide our students with a better education. Many planning students complete co-op placements with municipal and regional organizations (i.e. Translink), and many go on to work at these levels of government once they graduate. This course will provide them with the foundation they need to succeed in these environments.

STAT 452 is becoming a required course in the Actuarial Science major and honours programs. Currently, STAT 302 is one of the optional prerequisites for STAT 452. We wish to discourage the actuarial students from taking it as the material in STAT 302 is largely taught in both STAT 285 and 350. The latter two courses present the material at a higher level required by the discipline, and taking STAT 302 in addition to STAT 285 and 350 is therefore redundant. Note that a similar rule is already in place for the Statistics major and honours programs.

RATIONALE (must be included)

Over the past five years, the actuarial profession changed drastically with the introduction of more data science and predictive analytics. Future actuaries are expected to have better computing skills and be more knowledgeable about statistical methodology. ACMA 440 is deleted and removed from our programs to make room for statistical courses better aligned with the future of the profession (e.g., STAT 350 and 452). Students will not be impacted by this deletion as those interested in the topics taught in this course will still be able to enroll in ACMA 490 (cross-listed with ACMA 830) that covers part of the learning objectives of ACMA 440.

EFFECTIVE TERM AND YEAR FOR CHANGES

Fall, Spring, Summer and year (enter in textbox)

PLEASE DO THE FOLLOWING:

1. Attach a program impact list along with your course deletion form. Contact the Senate and Academic Services Office (sfucal@sfu.ca) for a program impact list.
2. Once you have the program impact list, please review how deleting this course affects each program's requirements.
3. If more substantial changes are required to programs as a result of this deletion, please also submit a program modification form.
4. If no further changes other than deletion is required in program requirements, please list those programs in the box below:

Two programs are impacted by this deletion, i.e.,

1. Actuarial Science Major (BSc),
2. Actuarial Science Honours (BSc).

As part of the package, we are submitting program modification forms that address how the program will be changed to address this deletion. Note that ACMA 440 is not a prerequisite for any of the courses offered at Simon Fraser University.

5. Lastly, please conduct a course impact analysis, which reviews the effect of a course number change and/or course deletion on course prerequisites. For instructions on how to do a course impact analysis, please visit our page and click on "deleting a course" and review Step 2. Course Impact Analysis.

We are removing ACMA 440 from our Actuarial Science programs. Some important topics covered in ACMA 440 need to be covered in our degrees, however. We have decided to move these two topics to ACMA 340 (i.e., mean-variance portfolio theory and asset pricing models). We expect to reduce the coverage of option strategies to compensate for these extra topics.

Before creating ACMA 470, this course was offered as a special topic (ACMA or STAT 490). The last offering of this course as a special topic was Summer 2003, so it is safe to assume that all students present at the time of this change graduated. Further, a reference to STAT and ACMA 490 is confusing because other special topics are taught under this number. We are therefore removing the mention of STAT and ACMA 490 from the equivalent statement of ACMA 470 as it is not needed anymore.
