Applying for an Electronic Travel Authorization (eTA)

What is an Electronic Travel Authorization (eTA)?
The Electronic Travel Authorization (eTA) is an entry requirement for Temporary Resident Visa (TRV)-exempt foreign nationals who plan to enter or transit Canada by air.

Who needs an eTA?
An eTA is required by individuals who:
- Do not require a TRV (exceptions include citizens of the United States)
- Plan to enter Canada by air (an eTA is not required if entering Canada by land or sea)

To see if you need an eTA please visit the Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada (IRCC) website: http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/visit/visas.asp

How long will my eTA be valid?
If your application is approved, your eTA will be valid for 5 years or until the expiry date of your passport, whichever comes first. If unsure, you can check your eTA status on the IRCC website at: http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/visit/eta.asp

What is the cost for an eTA?
It costs $7 CAD to get an eTA. Payment must be made online using a credit card (Visa, Mastercard, American Express or a pre-paid Visa, Mastercard or American Express). Make sure to print your receipt right away after paying online. You won’t be able to print a copy later or request a copy of your receipt from IRCC.

I currently hold a valid study permit. How can I apply for an eTA?
If you are applying for an initial study permit from outside of Canada on or after August 1, 2015 an eTA will be issued to you automatically. You do not need to submit a separate eTA application. Information about your eTA will be included in your port of entry introduction letter from IRCC when your study permit is approved. If unsure, check your eTA status by visiting: http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/visit/eta.asp

If you are applying for a study permit extension from within Canada, and you do not already have an eTA linked to your passport, you should apply for an eTA once your study permit application has been approved. IRCC will not automatically issue an eTA with your study permit extension.

You may apply for an eTA online at: http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/visit/eta-start.asp You will need a valid passport, a credit card (or pre-paid credit card), and an email address to apply.

What is the processing time for an eTA application?
Most eTA applications are approved within minutes of applying. However, depending on the circumstances, your application may take longer to process. You should apply for an eTA well in advance if you plan to travel. The eTA is a mandatory requirement and if you do not have one you will be denied boarding your flight to Canada.

I have just submitted my eTA application – what happens next?
When your eTA is approved, you will receive email confirmation from IRCC that includes your eTA number and expiration date, and your passport number. Your eTA is electronically linked to your passport so you do not need to print this email however you must travel with the passport you used to apply for the eTA.

If IRCC requires additional information to process your application, or your eTA application is refused, you will receive an email. If you do not receive an email confirmation with an application number within 72 hours of applying, please contact an International Student Advisor.

Does it matter if my eTA expires while I am in Canada?
No. Your study permit gives you legal status in Canada. The eTA only allows you to enter Canada. As long as your study permit remains valid, you can legally stay in Canada and study.

Tips for completing the eTA application form

Visit http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/visit/eta-start-int.asp to begin your eTA application. Please note: Your information can’t be saved and you have limited time to complete the form.

The system will ask you several questions before taking you to the online eTA application form.

This refers to initial study permit applications only. Individuals who applied for an initial study permit on or after August 1, 2015 were automatically issued an eTA.

This does not apply to study permit extensions. If you extended your study permit you were not automatically issued an eTA and you must apply for one before travelling.

The eTA Application Form

- The IRCC website has a detailed ‘help guide’ [available in several languages] that includes helpful tips and information to assist you in completing the form. Please visit http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/visit/eta-start-int.asp (scroll down to select a language).

- Be sure to enter your personal details exactly as they appear on your passport. Failure to do so could lead to your application being delayed or refused and/or prevent you from being allowed to board your flight.

- Review your application carefully for typos or mistakes. Ensure it is complete and accurate before submitting to IRCC.

Unique Client Identifier (also referred to as ‘Client ID Number’)
This is an 8-digit number and it is located on your study permit.

Funds Available for Travel to Canada
Please ensure that you have sufficient funds to support yourself while you stay in Canada. IRCC’s standard cost for one year is $10,000 (approximately $833 per month).

Occupation
If you are a full-time student at SFU, select ‘Student’ from the drop down menu.

Email Address
Ensure that you enter a valid email address that you check regularly. All communication from IRCC regarding your eTA application will go to this email address. If you apply for an eTA and do not receive an email from IRCC, please check your junk mail folder as some spam filters may block automated emails from IRCC.

Background Questions
You must answer all background questions honestly. If you answer ‘yes’ to any of the background questions you will be required to provide additional details.
